YEAGER'S GANG

Five of the Horse-thieves Escape by Women's Assistance.

HENNESSY, (Okla.,) July 16.—The posse of farmers organized at Sheridan to capture Yeager's gang of horsethleves found the trail twenty-five miles west of Waukomis and ran part of the gang to cover in a log house. They surrounded the house, captured the desperadoes and horses and saddles and some arms. After twenty-four hours' slege the outlaws, five in number, forced two women living there to walk ahead of them as shields to keep the posse from shooting, and, each drawing a brace of revolvers, they made their escape to the heavy timber, firing a number of shots to keep the posse from pressing them too closely.

KEPT HER WORD

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

ATWOOD, (Ill.,) July 16.—Miss Carrie Moore, the only child of W. F. Moore, Mayor of Atwood and Supervisor of Unity Township, committed suicide last evening. She was about 19 years old and for the last year or more had been keeping company with William Hurschburger, a son of one of the best families in the county. He testified before the coroner's jury that they had several lovers' quarrels. On July 4 he told her that he would not call again, and she said she would kill herself. Sunday night he took her in his buggy to church at Macedona, about seven miles northeast of Atwood, and they returned about midnight.

It appears that this was to be his last night with her, and she told him again that the next time he saw her it would be in her coffin. He attempted to go in and tell her parents, but she held the gate. She slept upstairs, and while her mother was getting breakfast and her father was at the barn she got up, took a revolver from a bureau drawer, went into another room and, placing an old carpet and pillow on the floor, lay down. Placing the revolver just above the heart, she pulled the trigger. Her mother found a note left by her bidding all good-by. ATWOOD, (Ill.,) July 16.-Miss Carrie

STAMBOULOFF'S FATE.

T IS WHAT THE EX-PREMIER HA EXPECTED.

Little Hope That He Will Recover from His Wounds-No Attempt Made to Stop His Assassin-An Arrest Ordered.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) SOFIA, July 18.—(By Atlantic Cable.)
The condition of M. Stambouloff this evening is such as to give slight hopes that he may yet recover from his wounds.

M. Stambouloff has made a statement M. Stambouloff has made a statement to the public prosecutor, who has or-dered the arrest of Tufektchieff, who was formerly charged with the murder of M. Bellcheff, the Bulgarian Minister of Finance, who was assassinated in March, 1891, while in company with M. Stambouloff. Mme. Bellcheff, it will be recalled was inclined to believe that recalled, was inclined to believe that recalled, was inclined to believe that M. Stambouloff was the murderer of her husband and a warrant was isgued, but never executed, for his arrest.

A man who witnessed M. Stambouloff's coachman pursue the assassin, states that he saw a policeman strike the coachman because of the latter's refusal to give up the revolver with which he was chasing the criminal and to whom the policeman was paying no attention. M. Stambouloff has long been convinced that he would fall a victim to vengeance of the friends of Maj. Panitzav, whom he caused to be executed after he had been found guilty of treason in 1890 in conspiring against the life of Prince Ferdinand.

independence falls to the ground, and the land becomes a Russian government.

The National Zeitung says that July 15 was a black day for Bulgaria, for not only Stambouloff, but most probably also independent Bulgaria received its deathblow.

The Standard's Carlsbad correspondent says that the Stambouloff outrage caused a great sensation there. Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria is staying in the English quarter incognito, surrounded by detectives. He is farely seen and sits at a corner table in the Posthof cafe, outside Carsbad, every morning with a large suite. He now, as at the time of Maj. Panitra's exervition, goes about in fear of his life.

All the London newspapers have severe articles on the Stambouloff affair, condemning Prince Fesdinand and the Bulgarian government. Stambouloff was slightly improved last evening. His heart was stronger and his intellect unimpaired. Numerous messages expressing indignation have been received.

CHICAGO, July 15—No such "big talk" has ever been planned before, it is claimed, as the ten-day go-as-you-please match between the chosen representatives of the opposing sides of the money question, Roswell G. Judges and Gentlemen: It is agreed between the force the great attention absenced and the select andlence preve statement defining in a general way the position he proposes to occupy in this debate.

The question which we are about to discuss is one that is not only receiving very great attention among the people of the United States, but it is one that is also receiving some attention from the nations of the Old World. The question involves the kind of money that shall be used by the United States, and has to do with laws which will affect the great business interests of this nation. The question of finance is a very complicated one, and there are some features of it about which the ablest men of the world have been differing for years.

The foundation for the discussion upon which we are about to enter is a small book published by Mr. Harvey, my opponent, and entitled "Coin's Financial School." The real aim and object of that book is to convince the people of the United States that this government should at once enter upon the free and unlimited coinage of silver upon the old ratio of 16 to 1. The wisdom of such a course I dispute. Mr. Harvey will still maintain the affirmative of that issue. I will state in the outset that from the beginning to the end of the book there is hardly a prop. sition made to which I give my assent. I propose to controvert many things which are stated as facts, and shall attempt to prove that the entire theory set forth' by its author, if adopted by the people of this country, would lead on, to business disaster and financial ruin. I do not remember now ever to have examined a book carefully in which I found so few statements that I consider worthy of belief, and I certainly never saw so many errors crammed into so few pages.

I am not here as an opponent of bi-metallism. I believe in the use of rold in the state of the discussion of the metallism. I believe in the use of rold in the state of the discussion and the use of rold in the state of the use of rold in the few pages.

I am not here as an opponent of bimetallism. I believe in the use of gold and silver as money to the fullest ex-I am not here as an opponent of bimetallism. I believe in the use of gold and silver as money to the fullest extent that can be done on sound business principles. My position upon this question has been too frequently stated within the last five years to be misunderstood by any one. I believe that both gold and silver are the natural money of the world; that in all the larger transactions gold is better adapted to the needs of the people than silver; that all the smaller business transactions of the human family, for years, have been and always should be condupted with silver. I also believe that in all transactions of the nations of the world between themselves, the two metals should be used in the settling of balances, but only at their commercial value. I also believe that in the business of our nation the people should never attempt to use either metal except at its actual value, only in cases where one metal may be used as token money and be made redesmable in metal at its commercial value.

I have always entertained the hope that the business men of the world would yet come together in an international convention and agree upon some basis whereby gold and silver can both be used as the money of final settlement among the people of the entire world.
I am very clear in my idea that until somesu ch arrangement shall be made, it would be simply suicide for this nation to adopt a system of the free coinage of silver upon the old ratio, a ratio which all the civilized nations of the world have long since discarded. I do not believe that any one government can fix the value upon any two metals and name a ratio which will be accepted by the people of the world, or of the contry itself, so that the two metals will be used side by side. Consequently, if our nation should attempt any such action, it would simply place our country upon a silver basis and the attempt would end in silver monometallism.

If we are compelled to decide between gold monometallism and silver in mo-

attempt would end in silver monometallism.

If we are compelled to decide between gold monometallism and silver monometallism, then I am decidedly in favor of adopting a standard used by the civilized nations of the world. I do not believe that silver has ever been demonetized anywhere in the world. I believe that the law-of 1873, which Mr. Harvey's book denounces as a "crime," was honestly conceived and passed by the American Congress after full deliberation and because the people at that time who held seats in the American Congress believed that such a law ought to be enacted. I do not believe in the teachings of this book that this nation is on the verge of financial ruin or that starvation is staring our people in the face. I believe if our nation should adopt the course advocated in this book it would seriously injure the entire wage-earners of the United States. I believe we would destroy the confidence of the business men of the world in our integrity as a nation and that we would precipitate such a financial panic as our country has never before seen.

I shall deny most emphatically that

Fourth—That this bimetallic system made an unlimited demand for both metals to be coined into money and increased the demand for these metals, and so long as this law authorized any one to coin 371½ grains of silver and 23 2-10 grains of gold into a dollar there was no one willing to sell either for less than a dollar.

Fifth—That the option to pay in either metal caused the cheaper of the two metals to be used and transferred the demand from the dearer to the cheaper metal, and restored its relative commercial value. We are for both silver and gold. We are called silver men; we are defending the metal that has been demonetized.

Sixth—That it is to the interest of the Sixth—That it is to the interest of the United States to act independently in the remonetization of ilver at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the action of the control of the co of 16 to 1, without waiting for the action of any other nation.

Seventh—That monometallism consists in the use of the dearer of the two metals to the exclusion of the other as primary or redemption money; that monometallism is an experiment on trial for the first time in the history of the world and began with the period of 1873. That it is impractical and impossible as a stable money measurement of values; is not based on scientific financial principles, is in the interest of the money-lenders and against the interest money-lenders and against the interest of the money-lenders and against the interest of the property-owners and laborers. Eighth—That the gold unit as the measure of values, with no concurrent coinage of another metal to assist it in performing the functions of primary money, has caused the fall in prices as compared with 1872, when the world's prices of property were measures in the money mass of both metals. That all prices of property and labor have declined accordingly as compared with 1872, except when held up relatively by increased demand or short supply or combinations and trusts, or by special reasons affecting a particular service or property; that the average price of all production except gold will show this decline in adjusting itself to the gold standard, and that when we include in labor the unemployed and the time lost to the semilowed there is a feel in labor the unemployed and the time lost by those-employed, there is a fall in wages of one-half as compared with 1872. That labor is adjusting itself to the gold standard measurement of val-

1872. That labor is adjusting itself to the gold standard measurement of values.

Ninth. That the decline in prices covering a period of twenty-two years has as a rule made all classes of productive, mercantile and manufacturing business unprofitable; that a falling market, covering a long period, destroys the prospective profits based on cost of purchase and production, and a majority of our most astute business men cannot avoid fallure or loss of capital under these conditions.

Tenth. That is has worked a hardship and injury to debtors, who, until consclous of the causes that continuously reduced the prices of their property, have contracted debts during these twenty-two years; that this fall in prices causes a sacrifice of property to purchase the dollars with which to liquidate these debts; that this has caused the renewal of debts, the contraction of new debts to pay old debts and an enlarged volume of all debts; that this unjustly takes from a debtor his property and emphasizes the importance of a stable money measurement of values.

Eleventh. That in the end no one is benefited by a fall in prices but the money-lender, the owner of money and securities payable in money, fixed incomes.

Twelth. That the foregoing facts

Twelfth. That the foregoing facts and conditions, produced by a change in our money measurement of values, will impoverish the masses of the people and points by reason of the disturbances it will produce to the overthrow of the republic.

To all unbiased men, and those who will lay aside their prejudices during the reading of this debate, I expect to make good all the foregoing propositions. Every fact in the "school" that Mr. Horr does not attack, I shall take for granted that he admits its truth. I am now ready to proceed in the order indicated in "Coin's Financial School" and as contemplated by the rules of the debate.

The debate proper began by Horr asking his opponent to tell plainly if there ever was any such school held.

NEW YORK, July 16.—(Special Dispatch.) The Cuban Junia here negotiated today for 1000 pounds of dynamite to be used by the insurgents in Cuba in their campaign against the Span-lards. This is the first actual purchase of explosives that has been made in this city since the present uprising began. Col. Liulla, at the headquar-ters of the Revolutionary party, said: "We are getting ready to use rocket bombs but as yet we have made of ex-

The Pearl arrived here from St. Croix on July 4, with a cargo of general merchandise consigned to Park, Milburn & Co. She discharged her cargo, and was taking on another for Central American ports on the Brooklyn side when the Spanish agents got an inkling of what was going on. Capt. Foster is the commander of the brig, and it is said that he is one of the shrewdest and most experienced captains that comes to this port. When the United States officials made the seizure, and the owners of the brig were apprised of the discovery at the arms, it is said they immediately disclaimed all complicity in the transaction, and alleged that they had been deceived as to the true nature of the goods consigned to their care.

Horr said: "I find all through the book a large number of statements attributed to a very considerable number of the business men of Chicago and I am informed that those men never uttered a single word attributed to them. If the book is written as an allegory I would like my friend to state why he did not use, as all literary men have always done, the names of fletitious individuals, unless he intended to convey the impression that those men were present and received the castigation which he says he administered to them on the spot. The book even goes further. It describes the crestfallen manner in which some of the gentlemen left the room after being worsted in this fearful manner. (Laughter.) I feel now what we want to get at is the fact about the book, (Laughter.) I feel now what we want to get at is the fact about the book, so we will know how we are pro-

Harvey said: "The 'School' is alle-corical. It marshals the opinions of Harvey said: "The 'School' is allegorical. It marshals the opinions of the two sides of this controversy so that one in imagination can see the conflict of opinions and the contest as it proceeds. It puts in the mouths of the gold-standard advocates their well-known views, fairly stated, with which the country had been flooded up to the time 'School' was written. The strength of the book was intended to be in the fairness of stating these views. The fact that a little boy in knee-pants was the instructor of the views. The fact that a little boy in knee-pants was the instructor of the men was supposed to be sufficient to fix the story as allegorical. One reading 'Assop's Fables' does not care whether the animals talked or not. Neither does he attach any importance as to whether the little boy talked or not. It is the subject and the truths uttered that give it in each instance its importance. If it is charged that actual characters are used in the book, while similar books use fictitious characters, the answer is well known that the utterances and the opinions of these men are used, and the further answer, that Shakespeare used actual characters."

Horr. I submit that if my friend had studied the scriptures a little more closely when he was looking for the motto which I shall take up next, he would have found it somewhere related that a man is not permitted to bear false witness against his neighbor. He says he put into their mouths the words that they themselves would have uttered. I have had that done for me so many times in my life that I know what it means. But now I come to the motto of the book, which is this: "I thank Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent and hast revealed them to babes." Does my friend desire to intimate that the finance which he teaches is something that babes will understand, but that people that know anything will never be able to comprehend? (Applause.)

never be able to comprehend: (Applause.)

Harvey. Mr. Horr misinterprets the meaning of that verse. The word "babes" is intended to mean the pure of mind and unselfish. It is in that sense that it is used in the Bible, and means that those pure or mind and unselfish can see clearly those things which the impure of mind and selfish cannot see or understand. (Applause.) "The cause I represent." Harvey continued, "is pure and unselfish." At this point the contestants discussed also at length the definition of money. Coming to the money system of the United States, Horr said:

money. Coming to the money system of the United States, Horr said:

"The first law that was ever passed in the United States upon the subject of money was on the 6th day of July, 1785; that was two years after the subject had been discussed in every shape and form by the people and press of the United States. Congress then—I will say the exact words. 'And on the question that the money unit of the United States of America be one dollar, the yeas and nays being requested by Mr. Howell, every member answering yea, it was resolved that the money unit of the United States of America be one dollar. Resolved, That the smallest coin be of copper, of which two hundred shall pass for one dollar. Resolved, That the silver pieces shall increase in a decimal ratio."

a decimal ratio."
"That was the first action taken by the American Congress. They first fixed the unit, that is the name of the thing that should be used as the measure of value, deciding that it should be called one dollar, and that the smallest division of that should be a half-cent piece, that it should be copper and that it should be copper and that it should take two hundred of them to make the unit. This was the first efort of the new government to established. make the unit. This was the first effort of the new government to establish a monetary system. Now every one will say that they had not yet stated at all what the dollar should consist of except that two hundred half-cent copers. That is all the law there has ever been on the subject and all that has ever been said about it anywhere. (Applause.) So we had first the money of the daddles of copper, no doubt about it.

"Now comes the next important leg-islation: 'Resolved, That the standards of the United States of America fo gold and silver shall be eleven parts fine and one part alloy.' Originally that was the weight of alloy in all the coins of the United States. Afterwards we reduced the alloy so that it was one part in ten."

Harvey said: "As to what Mr. Horr Harvey said: "As to what Mr. Horr says about copper used as money during the Continental days preceding the adoption of the Constitution, it is trivial to be used in this argument. At the time our Constitution was framed, the details governing the concurrent coinage of the two metals in our financial systems was under discussion in committees and between statesmen of that period. So, while these details were left to Congress, after the adoption of the Constitution, a bimetallic system the Constitution, a bimetallic system was provided for in that Constitution Art. I. sec. 8 says: 'Congress shall have power to coin money, regulate the value thereof and of foreign coins.' See 10 says: 'No State shall coin money or make anything but gold and silver coins tender in payment of debts.' It says gold and silver (Applause.) and not gold or silver. (Applause.) "The men who framed this Constitution then proceeded to give it the con-

She made 19.8 knots, which is regarded as very good speed, though it is not considered the maximum speed of the vessel, which has heretofore reached 21 knots, the present being merely a trial under ordinary circumstances and not a speed test. The speed given was made while inside of a measured distance in order that the board might tell, exactly how fast the boat was going. The board believes, however, that the ship exceeded this speed and based the belief on the fact that for three hours the ship was out at sea and had no means of measurement saye the log. PHILADELPHIA AROUSED.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—The finding of the bodies of the two Pitzel children in Toronto created a sensation in police circles in this city. The authorities are convinced that they were murdered, by Arch-conspirator H. H. Detective Geyer, who found the bodies of the children in Toronto, has been on the case since September, 1894, when the charred-remains of the bogus or genuine Pitzel were found. He followed many clews furnished by President Fouse of the Fidelity Mutual Insurance Association and has been confident from the outset that the murder would finally be fastened upon Holmes.

President Foure said; "Everything points to the fact that Holmes plotted to destroy the entire Pitzel family. We found the house in Detroit where Holmes and the boy Howard had been together, and there were traces of a huge fire built in the furnace, from which we infer that he burned the boy's corpse. THE LITTLE VICTIMS TORONTO, July 16.—The bodies of the two Pitzel children exhumed in the cellar of a vacant house yesterday, were today removed to the morgue. Drs. Caven and Orr are making a post mortem. Efforts will be made to extradite Holmes at once and give him the benefit of swift Canadian justice. Detective Geyer's theory is that the children were chloroformed in a trunk. The inquest on the bodies of Ella and Nellie Pitzel was opened tonight. Evidence was taken as to the finding of the bodies and then the jury adjourned until tomorrow evening to await the post mortem by the medical men entrusted with the examination of the bodies.

The detectives are at work. Today they discovered the expressman who took the trunk, which has invariably accompanied the man Holmes in all his journeys into the St. Vincent-street house and this man had no difficulty in picking out Holmes's photograph from a number of others. Detective Gryer thinks that he has clues that will lead to the discovery of the fate of Minnie R. CUSTOMS RULE.

An Order Limitng the Number Promotions.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) WASHINGTON, July 16.-The Presi dent has just promulgated a new rule modifying the old customs rule of the civil service. The effect of this rule is to greatly limit the number of promo-tions in classified customs districts, ex-cept after appropriate examinations. The necessity for the change in the rules arises from the fact that the extension of the classification in the customs service on the 2d of November last over positions paying salaries of less than $900, opened the doors for the promotion of many persons who had entered the service through Presidential or political favoritism.

The old rule would permit these persons, after they were brought into the classified service, to be advanced to many of the best-paying positions in the office without examination. Under the new rule promotions can be made only to a limited extent without examination, and no promotion can be made The necessity for the change in the

Congressman Campbell and the Case of the Bendictine Sisters.

Congressman Campbell and the Case of the Bendictine Sisters.

REGULAR ASSCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Representative Tim Campbell of New York had a conference today with Acting Secretary of State Adee with respect to the ill-treatment of certain missionaries in Ecuador during the progress of the recent revolution in that country. In 1887 a number of Sisters of the Benedictine order sailed from New York for Ecuador to establish missions there. They started missions at Rocapurtee, where a convent was established in charge of Sister Theresa, and at Babahoyo and Calleta, the latter mission being in charge of Sister Genevieve.

During the revolution the mission of Calleta was destroyed and the Sisters were ill-treated and compelled to escape from the country in a small boat. After hearing this statement, Acting Secretary Adee promised to cable immediately to United States Minister Tillman at Quito, instructing him to secure governmental protection for the twenty-two missionaries still in Ecuador and see that they are not further persecuted. It is probable that as soon as the case can be put in-proper form this government will be asked to prefer a demand for reparation on the Ecuadoran government.

Judge Ogden Hands Down His De-cision That the Carpentier Grant is Void.

The Southern Pacific to Maintain Its Wharves in the Interest

An Aged Pioneer Poisoned-The California Miners-Supervisor Brown on Trial-Durrant's Case-The Fair Will.

REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
OAKLAND, July 16.—Superior Judge
Ogden today rendered a decision in fayor of the city in the famous case of the city of Oakland against the Waterfront Company, otherwise the Southern Pa-cific Railroad Company, involving the title to eleven miles of water front, valned at many millions of dollars, and which has been practically in dispute for forty years. The decision does not pass directly on the title of third parpass directly on the title of third par-ties holding small portions, bought in good faith from the Waterfront Company and improved.

The decision recites at length the history of the case, giving details as to the granting of the title by the first board of trustees of the town to Horace W. Carpentier and by him to the Waterfront Company; the efforts since made by the city to recover possession of the property; the acts of the Legislature in connection with the case; the bearing of the decision by the United States Supreme Court in the Chicago water-front case, etc.

When the Chicago decision was an When the Chicago decision was announced litigation was in progress before the entire number of superior judges of this county affecting a small portion of the water-front, where private individuals occupying were sued by the Waterfront Company to recover possession. The judges, sitting in bank, at once decided that the Water-front Company had no title to the land in Oakland in that case.

pany had no title to the land in Oakland in that case.

Judge Ogden refers to the decision then reached, and says that he fully agrees with it, but that he reaches the same conclusion by a different process of reasoning in the present case. The court holds that the city cannot take possession of the wharves built by the railroad company without paying for the improvements. The case is one of the utmost importance in Oakland, as possession of the property by the railroad company has retarded improvements thereon, the latter refusing to do anything on account of the suits pending or threatened suits by the city to secure the property.

A SUPERVISOR'S TRIAL.

James Brown of Stockton Accuse of Having Taken a Bribe.

STOCKTON, July 16.—Supervisor James Brown is on trial in the Superior Court on a charge of having accepted a bribe for his vote as a member of the County Board of Supervisors. Brown, who is chairman of the board, was indicted by the grand jury and charged with having taken a bribe to secure the option of the plans of Architect Rushford for a county hospital and Rushford for a county hospital and almshouse.

Charles W. Ward, ex-superintendent of the County Hospital, and Dr. C. H. Bulson, the ex-County Physician, are said to have done the bribing with the money furnished by Rushford. Should Brown be convicted, Rushford will, in all probability, be indicted. Ward was tried for offering a bribe, found guilty, and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in San Quentin. He is now in the County Jail, pending the decision of the Supreme Court on the appeal of his case to that tribunal.

Bulson, the alleged co-briber, has not yet been tried, and it is rumored that the charge against him will be dismissed in consideration of his testifying against Brown.

E. T. Earl of the Earl Fruit Company and Nate Salisbury of the Porter Bros. Company tendered their resignations as a reply to the insinuations that they as a majority of the Executive Committee were running the affairs of the sessociation. THE TRUST CLAUSE.

An Answer Filed in Charles L. Fair'

Trust Suit. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—An answer was filed today in the suit filed by Charles L. Fair to test the validity of the iron-clad trust clause in his father's will. The answer is that of the plaintiff's sisters and his brother-in-law, plaintiff's sisters and his brother-in-law, Theresa A. Oelrichs, Virginia Fair and Herman Oelrichs, and is in the nature of a confession of judgment.

The defendants, in their answer, admit that the claims of the four executors 'under James G. Fair's will are without any right or foundation in law or equity. The defendants ask for such relief as may be consistent with the case made by the plaintiff. Charles Fair, in his action to test the validity of the trust, had named his sisters as co-defendants with the trustees. The executors of the will have not yet answered, and until they do the issue cannot be properly joined for a contest.

A PIONEER POISONED.

Saspicion Points to His Widow a the Supposed Criminal.

SAN JOSE, July 16.—The startling statement was made today that Eleazar Frost, an aged pioneer, who died in this city, was poisoned, and from the assertions of Erwin Frost, son of the deceased, the widow is responsible for her husband's death.

William Vintner, a friend of the dead man, became convinced that an investigation was necessary, and he requested the Coroner to hold an inquest, as did also Erwin Frost, but that official refused the request until a formal complaint was made, intimating that there was nothing more in the case than a fight for the old man's estate, which is valued at about $100,000.

This evening, however, the body was taken to the Coroner's office, where Drs. Trueman and Burr held an autopsy, removing the stomach for the purpose of analyzing the contents. The Coroner decided, after further investigation, to hold an inquest tomorrow. Eleazer Frost came to California in 1853 and resided in San Jose most of the time. He has had three wives, the last a young woman named Dora McDonald, who wedded him in 1881. This marriage was a great surprise to his friends, and caused much clashing among the family, which consists of eleven children, two by the last marriage: forty-two grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren,

THE LUMBER DEALERS.

A Spirited Meeting at Which the Tar

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—A spirit ed meeting of lumber-dealers was held in the office of the Pacific Pine Lumber Company today to take action regarding the enforcement of the decision re-cently rendered by the Board of General Appraisers to the effect that a lumbe tariff of 20 per cent. ad valorem must be paid on dressed lumber which is imported from British Columbia and Canada.

Every lumber-dealer present indorsed the decision, and it was unanimously agreed to push the matter as much as possible, for the protection of the lumber-dealers of the Coast. There was not a man present who stood against a high tariff for imported lumber.

It was held that no misinterpretation could be attributed to the uncertainty as to difference between dressed lumber and manufactures of wood, and that worked lumber, such as flooring, molding, door and window casings, etc., should be taxed just the same as dressed or surfaced lumber, according to the decision of the Board of Appraisers. A circular to that effect was adopted, and copies of it will be distributed among the lumber-dealers of the State.

A REPORT ON THE IMPROVEMENTS

the Columbia River-The Cas-cades Locks-The Money Which Will be Used for the Work.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) WASHINGTON, July 16 .- Mai, J. C. Post, in charge of the river and harbor improvements in Oregon, has made his annual report to the Chief Engineer. annual report to the Chief Engineer. Several important works are under his direction, notably the mouth of the Columbia River, the canal and locks at the Cascades and the deep-water channel of the Columbia at Portland, Or. At the mouth of the Columbia the propect contemplated a navigable channel thirty feet deep at low water across the bar. This work is being accomplished by a single jetty. A channel 31 feet deep, for half a mile and thirty feet for seven-cighths of a mile at low water has been secured. The work remaining to curacy. Theodosia Burr, a young woman of unusual mental attainments, was married to the son of Judge Alston of South Carolina, a relative of Washington Alston, the celebrated historical painter. Mr. and Mrs. Alston resided on their plantation near Charleston. When Aaron Burr contemplated returning from the extended visit he made to Europe after his trial he wrote Mrs. Alston, to whom he was devotedly attached, asking her to meet him in New York on his arrival there. Mr. Alston, engrossed with the business of his plantation, found it impossible to accompany his wife. There being no railroads in those days, Mr. Alston, deeming that a summer trip from Charleston to New York by sea would, be less irksome to his wife than a stage journey by land, chartered a coasting schooner. In this Mrs. Alston set out. She took with her, as a present to her father, a beautiful painting of herself. But she never reached New York, and down to the present date the fate of Aaron Burr's only child has been a matter of speculation among historians, some contending that the vessel and all on board were lost at sea, others asserting that Mrs. Alston fell into the hands of some of the pirates who in those days infested the Atlantic coast. seven-eighths of a mile at low water has been secured. The work remaining to be done consists of completing a small portion of the jetty and seeing to the maintenance of the channel.

It is expected this work will be completed in four months. The total amount appropriated for this work has been $2,-025,680, which will be sufficient to complete it. It was estimated at $3,710,000 and its construction will therefore cost $1,634,320 less than the estimate. Maj. Post says this remarkable exhibit has been principally due to the fact that the appropriations from time to time have proved sufficient to practically maintain continuous operations. The further expenditure of money for renewing the elevated tracks will be unnecessary. This track was used to transport material for building the jetty and was in a state of decay. There is yet a balance available of $130,466. The work was begun in 1885.

available of $130,466. The work was begun in 1885.

The commercial statistics for 1895 show a total tonnage at Astoria of 750,445 tons, and at Porland of 648,883 tons. The deep-water channel to Porland contemplates twenty-five feet depth at low water from Portland to the sea. This includes twelve miles of the Willamette and ninety-eight miles to the sea. Work during the past year has been confined principally to dredging to aid in creating and maintaining new channels and relieving deposits of the extreme high water of 1894. At several points the channel was shoaled to a depth of eighteen and nineteen feet, but these have been dredged, and a depth of twenty-one feet obtained. Maj. Post says that the commerce of the port of Portland is constantly increasing, and that vessels are becoming larger and of deepedden. the Middle States.

About five years ago this clergyman was visiting in his native state, North Carolina, and for several days was the guest of the widow of Dr. William Poole, near Elizabeth City. Above the mantel-piece in Mrs. Poole's parlor was an old-fashioned painting, exquisitely executed, of a beautiful young woman, dressed in white. It so greatly interested the clergyman that he asked Mrs. Poole whom it was intended to represent. She then gave the following story of it: ested the clergyman that he asked Mrs. Poole whom it was intended to represent. She then gave the following story of it:

Eight years previously, she said, Dr. Poole had taken his family to pass the summer at the little coast town of Nag's Head, N. C., where the United States man-of-war Huron came to grief. The place is largely populated by "bankers"—generally a rough class of men, who mainly earn a livelihood by picking up all species of flotsam and jetsam along the coast. One of these "bankers," however, was a very respectable and very old fellow quamed Mann. His wife was sufering from a complication of diseases, and Dr. Poole took great interest in her case. Under his treatment she recovered, and as a token of gratitude to the doctor presented him with the painting which so greatly interested the clergyman. Mrs. Mann said her husband had recovered it from a wreck. When quite a young man he was walking along the shore one morning. His attention was then called to a coasting schooner under full sail, bearing swiftly down upon the dangerous bar which, in later vears, occasioned the loss of the Huron. With other "bankers" Mann put out to her assistance.

They boarded the schooner, but found that the only living thing aboard was a little black and tan dog. Careful inspection of the schooner proved nothing as to her antecedents. Even her name was not ascertainable. But one of the cabins had evidently been very recently occupied by a woman, and in this cabin was the painting which Mrs. Mann gave Dr. Poole, and which Mann appropriated as his share of the salvage. The schooner shortly afterward went to pieces.

Dr. Poole was an enthusiastic student of national matters. He felt certain that the picture had a very valuable history, and formed a suspicion that it might have represented the mysteriously lost daughter of Aaron Burr. He out himself in communication, with port of Portland is constantly increasing, and that vessels are becoming larger and of deeper draught, and that the completion of the project is reguired at an early date, especially since the depth at the bar of the Columbia has been obtained. In 1891 the cost of the project was estimated at $772,464, and $200,000 has already been appropriated. The city of Portland has expended considerable money on the project. The great canal and locks at the cascades of the Columbia, which have been under construction for fifteen years, are nearing completion.

Columbia, which have been under construction for fifteen years, are nearing completion.

Since 1893 the project has been under the continuing-appropriation system. Maj. Post says that this plan has great advantages, in that it gives sufficient money, but has the disadvantage that contractors may be fast or slow within certain limits. The high water of last year seriously interfered with the work, but since it subsided the construction has been rapidly prosecuted. At the same time, the officer says, it has not been bushed as rapidly as it should have been. Much remains to be done before the canal is open to navigation, but the officer says that there is no reason why boats should not be passing through by June 1, 1896. The amount appropriated thus far is $3.43.403; expended during the year, $640,998, with contracts out for $588.461. The canal will allow vessels of eight feet draught to pass to the Upper Columbia.

Another large project begun on the Columbia was the proposed boat railway at The Dalles. The boat railway nine miles long, has been graded and curvatures are said to be much more favorable than expected. Negotiations have commenced to obtain the necessary as the content of the corbinate prices demanded by individuals, and further complications that some of the land needed for the boat railway is occupied by the Oregon Rail. Londing Melons in Cars.

(Exchange:) The long way of a melon is the strong way. Every one knows that he can take an egg lengthwise between his hands and put his hands between his knees and he cannot crush the egg with his utmost efforts, whereas if placed so as to bring the pressure upon the sides, it will collapse. If a melon has a long diameter it ought to be so loaded in the cars as to bring the pressure of the apper layers on the lower ones in the direction of this long diameter. In other words, load the melons on their ends, of course, it will require more painstaking to do this than to load them on their sides, but it will enable the owner to put an extra course or two in the car without danger of breakage. Let the bottom of the car be well-cush loned with straw or pine needles to break the force of the thudding. Then Let the bottom of the car be well-cushloned with straw or pine needles to ideal car for the carrying of melons would be one furnished with racks or chambers, perforated like an egg-board, allowing each melon to Ocean Pirates!-Evidence Indicating That This May Have Been

The story of how Aaron Burr's only years ago, and how that fact was only recently established by the discovery of a portrait of her, rescued from the schooner from whence she was thrown into the sea, is told in print herewith for the first time, says the Elkton (Md.) correspondent of the Philadelphia Rec-ord. Involving, as it does, the deathbed confession of one of the pirate who drowned the young woman, the tale seems more like fiction than veri-fied history; but there are persons living hereabouts who have verified it in detail, and who will vouch for its accuracy.

Theodosia Burr, a young woman of of some of the pirates who in those days infested the Atlantic coast.

But the mystery has at last been cleared up. Its accuracy is vouched for by the former rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Elkton, a clergyman well known throughout Maryland and the Middle States.

several historical societies on the matter, but his theory found little weight, in spite of a family likeness being admitted.

As the clergyman upon whose authority this story is given was returning from a recent visit to Mrs. Poole, while driving from that lady's house to Elizabeth City to take the cars home, he met a young man, whom he knew to be very bashful and much afraid of the gentler sex, driving a strange woman in a buggy toward Mrs. Poole's residence. In a letter written to Mrs. Poole shortly afterward he good-naturedly referred to the incident and to the young fellow's evident embarrassment.

This brought from Mrs. Poole another chapter in the story of the beautiful picture. The strange woman was a descendant of the Burr family, who resides in Detroit, Mich. Her name has temporarily escaped the clergyman's memory. She had been visiting at Virgina Beach, Va., where she had heard of Mrs. Poole's mysterious painting from a North Carolina gentleman. Her visit to Elizabeth City was solely for the purpose of seeing the painting, and no sooner had she set eyes on it than she offered Mrs. Poole $300 spot cash for the same, besides any other additional sum she might require. Mrs. Poole refused to part with the treasure. She told the visitor that there was a strong family likeness between the latter and the subject might have been, and further informed her of the facts, already given here, as to how the painting came into her possession.

This elicited from the Detroit woman the content of the parting and and the streamantable tempingeness and overboard he noticed that this beautiful young lady paced the deck with magnificent courage and dignity, her hands folded on her breast and her eyes raised to heaven. She made no remonstrance whatever, and he steadled the plank upon which she walked to the vessel's side thence to be plunged headlong into the ocean. He wanted to take away her picture and her dog—a little black and tan fellow—but dreaded to touch either. After the pirates had plundered the schooner of money and other treasures they abandoned the vessel, having set it under full sail, to drift to its doom with the picture and the dog aboard. The dying sailor said that the young woman's sweet face had haunted him throughout life, and his confession was prompted by a striking resemblance between her and his elderly listener.

Mrs. Poole's visitor stated that the sailor's story had been for years a cur-rent tradition of the descendants of Burr's family, though they had hitherto Burn's family, though they had hitherto paid very little attention to it. Its extraordinary corroboration by the accidental meeting of these two women appears to settle forever the recent mystery as to the death of Mrs. Alston. The Detroit woman says that the subject of the painting is beyond doubt Aaron Burn's daughter—a statement corroborated by other pictures of that unfortunate woman in her possession, as also by still others belonging to the Alstonfamily.

How They Used to do Business in California. California.

(July Overland:) There were neither courts nor juries in the land; the word of a Californian was the only bond required. Even the wary Yankee traders who frequented the Coast, when foreign commerce was finally allowed, trusted them freely from one season to the next. An incident illustrating this trait is told by the Aguirre family. Don Jose Aguirre, who owned a trading vessel, once had as super-cargo a young man who was a stranger to California customs. While the ship, with cargo, lay in San Pedro Harbor. a young man who was a stranger to California customs. While the ship, with cargo, lay in San Pedro Harbor, the master being absent, Augustin Machado, a ranchero of considerable wealth in land and herds, but who could neither read nor write, went on board to do some purchasing, his carts awaiting him on shore. When he had made his choice and was about having the goods conveyed to land, the supercargo asked him for either payment or guaranty. Machado did not first understand that he was being distrusted; no such demand had ever before been made of any ranchero, where the buyer offered no money he being credited without hesitation. When at length it dawned upon the Californian, he drew a hair from his beard, and gravely handing it to the young man, said with dignity, "Deliver this to Senor Aguirre and tell him it is a hair from the beard of Augustin Machado—you will find it a sufficient guaranty." The supercargo, crestfallen, placed the hair in the leaves of his account book and allowed the goods to be removed. Upon Aguirre's return he was deeply chagrined at the insult that had been offered to his friend.

Postal Pircons and Ralloons.

Postal Pigeons and Balloons.

(Postal Record:) The most novel and successful instrument ever used in the postal service is the homing pigeon. During the Franco-German war, 1870-71, the inschious French adopted this system of transmission of their correspondence. The communications were printed and then micro-photographed onto thin films of collodion. Each pellicle contained the reproduction of sixteen follopages of type, and was so light that 50,000 messages could be carried by one pigeon. informed her of the facts, already given here, as to how the painting came into her possession.

This elicited from the Detroit woman another remarkable reminiscence, and one which, taken in connection with the foregoing facts, proves that the painting is that of Aaron Bur's daughter—the one destined as a present to her father—and that the unfortunate young woman was drowned by pirates. This, in substance, is the Detroit woman's story:

With her mother in Detroit formerly resided her mother's aged aunt, a humane woman, who gave up much time to visiting the poor and side. One evening, in one of the wards of the Marine, Hospital of that city, was a dying sailor, who seemed terribly startled as the aunt, in campany with others, approached his bedside. He beckoned her to him, however, and, after begging that she alone of the visitors might hear what he had to say—a request which the others granted by retiring to the next ward—he stated that as a young man he had one summer been on a pirate vessel off the North Carolina coast. He then went on to say that he had then helped to overhaul a northbound coasting schooner.

On the vessel was a beautiful young feminine passenger, dressed all in whi ele had assisted in dragging her from he cabin, in which was hanging up a painting of herself. While the pirates were engaged in throwing the crew pages of type, and was so light that 50,000 messages could be carried by one pigeon.

To insure safe transit the films were rolled up and placed in a quill, which was fastened to one of the tailfeathers of the pigeon. Upon arrival of the messenger at its destination the films were unrolled and thrown on a canvas by means of an electric lantern, copied by clerks and dispatched to their destination. Later, sensitive paper was substituted for canvas, and the letters were reproduced on it ready for remailing.

Another production of French ingenuity was a balloon postal system, with fifty-seven balloons. Each ascension cost about $1000, and, although Krupp had built several guns for the German army, designed specially to bring down these aerial mail cars, only five of them were captured. They carried many tons of mail, as well as ninety-one passengers, during the period of the war.

Of these gowns, the material of which might last a lifetime, she has but the remnants of two, one of brocaded satin, the other corded silk, either of which puts to shame the filmsler products of today. I asked her what had become of all her dresses, shawls and scarfs. She replied: "My father died, I could only wear black, so I gave them away to my friends. I had always possessed everything I desired, and had no idea there would come a time when I should need to deny my-self any article of dress I fancied."

"NEIGHBORS PLOT."

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(To the Editor of The Times.) The other side of the "Neighbors." Plot," in last Friday's issue of The Times. I' the tender-hearted Sheriffs could see their "frail, fair-haired woman" with disheveled har, in one of her crasy or delirium spells. The Times.) The other side of the "Neighbors Plot," in last Friday's issue of The Times. If the tender-hearted Sheriffs could see their "trail, fair-haired woman" with disheveled hair, in one of her crazy or delirium spells, they would wish for more than a board fence between her and them. Mrs. Ihrig, in "endeavoring to protect her property" from the onslaughts of the inoffensive rug, thrown on the sence while another was being shaken, is preposterous. The second time they were thrown on fence Mrs. Ihrig throw them in the dirt and they were not placed there again, as Mrs. Mabb did not wish to annoy; which fact she admitted to the commission. As to any controversy across the sence was a polite request by Mrs. Mabb to Mr. Ihrig that he would see to it that the beer, gasoline and many other vehicles should not stand an hour and over at a time across our driveway. As for sister's part in the "glowing picture of the Jawing match," will state that Mrs. Mabb was going to hitch her horse Wednesday and sister heard the unearthly screams of Mr. and Mrs. Ihrig, and went to the door and saw Mr. I with both hands clinging tenaciously to the top of the fence and screaming at Mrs. Mabb, and Mrs. Ihrig, like a raving maniac, declaring repeatedly that if she could only get to her she would kill her. And as this was not the first time she had threatened her life for fancied injury, my friends and neighbors advised me that it was my duty, as we all consider her insane ("to the best of our knowl-odge,") to have the woman taken before a lunacy commission. We all feel that the commission did us a great injustice in releasing. "as we fully believe," such a dangerous character. I have had considerable experience with insane people and know that they are very sly, and when they make threats they watch every oppertunity to execute them. If I had had the time I could have brought a great many who know her and honestly believe her to be mentally unsound. If she is not "non-compos-mentis," these spells might be drunken deliritum crase. There were two bids of $450 premium and accrued interest. This being the highest amount bid, that of E. W. Harris & Co., Chicago, was accepted.

COMMERCIAL.

PRUNE CROP OF FRANCE. The prices of California prunes are so largely influenced in the Eastern markets by the French prune crop that it is always a matter of importance to California to know whether the cropin France is going to be large or small, and whether the quality is good or hot. A few weeks ago The Times published the substance of a letter from Bordeaux, France, in which the writer stated that the reports from the prune-growing districts of that country gave every indication of a good crop of good quality. Since then later and more precise information has been received, but, except in some minor details, it corroborates the previous statement. This second letter is addressed to the California Fruit-grower, and, in part, says: "The crop of 1895 will be excellent in quantity as well as in the quality of the fruit. The crops of California and Bosnia being middling, French prunes will be in demand this year, the more so because the fruit will be handsome, large and irreproachable in quality." This year's crop (French crop) will, it is said, be among the best of the last twenty years in quality and size of fruit, and will bring-good prices. The quantity is estimated at from 55,000,000 to 60,000,000 pounds. In addition to this there is still on hand over 6,000,000 pounds of 1893 and 1894 crops. There will, therefore, be, as the writer of the letter says, French prunes enough for all countries. It is more than likely that a considerable portion of them will find their way to the United States and come in direct competition with the California product.

The total yield of all the prune trees of France, if they bare their full quantity, is put down at 100,000,000 pounds. kets by the French prune crop that it is always a matter of importance to letter from Messrs. Winterstein & Son of Buda-Pesth, Hungary, says the prune crop of Bosnia this season will be only about 40 per cent. of last year's yield, and will aggregate about 33,000,000 pounds. In Servia the crop is better and a yield of about 60,000,000 pounds is expected.

is expected.

In Bohemia the crop will be about the same as last year, but the remaining portion of Austria-Hungary will show a lighter crop than last season. In Southern Germany the crop will be

In Southern Germany the crop will be light.
With regard to prices, Messrs. Winterstein & Son believe there will not be any marked change unless climatic conditions should affect the output. Unless the United States should require a considerable quantity of Hungarian prunes it is not expected that prices, which are about the same as those of last year, will be materially changed.

HAY. Just now is a good time for those who desire to lay in a stock of good hay at low prices. It is a long time since baled hay of the best qualtime since baled hay of the best quality has been as cheap as it is today. Three months ago barley hay of last year's crop was selling at $17 a ton wholesale. Today a better quality of new hay can be bought for $8.50 a ton. As one large Los Angeles dealer said today: 'Prices of three months ago have been split in two.'' Today's prices in wholesale lots were $7.50 a ton for local cut, and $8.50 for choice San Fornando barley hay.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

SUGAR BEETS IN AUSTRALIA. The success attending the growth of the sugar beet in California has prompted some experiments with it in South, Australia. The Agricultural Gazette of New South Wales, referring to zette of New South Wales, reterring to them, says: "We learn of experiments with sugar beets at the Hawkesburg Agricultural College Farm, wherein seventeen varieties were tested under rather unfavorable conditions. The seed was not the best, and it was thought the region was too hot for best results. By far the seed was not the the thought the region was too hot for best results in sugar beets. By far the best results were reached with the De Klein Wanzleben variety which yielded at the rate of thirteen tons per acre of beets assaying 13.7 per cent. sugar and maishing an average of fourteen beets assaying 13.7 per cent. sugar and weighing an average of fourteen ounces per beet."

If such results can be obtained under what the Gazette says were "unfavorable conditions," it is more than likely that Australia will become a large beet-sugar producer. In a country as large as it is with such diversity of soil and climate, there can hardly be a question but that conditions favorable to the growth of the sugar beet will be found.

FREE TRANSPORTATION. The California Fruit Transportation Company has, through its Pacific Coast agent, George H. Appel, announced that it will forward free of charge for refrigeration any shipments of deciduous fruits which California growers may wish to send to the Atlanta (Ga.) Exposition, which opens September 18.

Mr. Appel also states that the Department of Agriculture at Washington has ordered sent to his company boxes for nuts, etc., and asking for exhibits of almonds, Persian walnuts and other nuts.

While it is too late in the season for the orange-growers of Southern California to make any suitable exhibit, there are numerous other products grown here to perfection which might be exhibited with credit to Southern California. An excellent display of lemons could be made and an endless variety of nuts could also be exhibited. The exposition at Atlanta will be largely attended, and presumably so by a great number who are not familiar with the products of Southern California. The opportunity to make them such should not be lost.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PIRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, July 16.—The stock market was again today in control of the traders, and as a result speculation was uncertain and the great bulk of business was done in the industrials, which are at present the favorites of the professional element. Speculation opened dull, and the first prices made were generally below the closing figures of last night. The early trading was almost entirely in the Industrial group and a very heavy tone prevailed, prices selling off sharply. Shorts soon began to cover and the market came into bettes tone. Directly after II o'clock a drive was made against Leather preferred, which respited in a loss of 1½ per cent. The general market also sagged, but only a fraction. Before the noon hour the pressure was removed from Leather preferred and a recovery of 1½ per cent. Was noted, but an attack on Chicago Gas brobs that stock seriously and communicated the weakness to the entire list. In the final dealings there was some covering in the shall a supplied the special stock of the day, except the cover of the special stock of the stock of the special sto (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, July 16.—The Evening Post's London cablegram says that the stock markets were idle today. There was no business in American securities until just at the close, when the market strengthened on New York support. The rise in Lake Shore to 152 was the feature. Reading advanced upon clique operations. A great many American bills are arriving here, both syndicate and otherwise. Rumors of a new Chinese sliver loan are discredited.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS.

Grain and Produce.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, July 16.—For no reason beyond, the speculative tactics of one or two bear leaders, wheat was depressed on the curb before the opening to a little below the price it closed at yesterday. September was offered at the beginning from 68 down to 67%. News from the Northwest and the slow movement of new winter wheat to market were enough to justify several slight bulges, but the numerous attempts to run the market up were easily counteracted. After Bradstreet's statement of the week's changes in the stock of the world came is, showing a decrease of 3,181,000 bushels, it jumped from around 67% to 68%. The bears were enabled to bring the price to 67% before the rise last mentioned on larger Russian shipments for the week from all exporting countries were 9,037,000 bushels, instead of 8,500,000 bushels, as estimated yesterday. Lower cables helped also, Paris being 15 centimes lower. A good inquiry for shipment was the later support of the market. About two hundred and fifty thousand bushels were reported sold. The Minneapolis Market Record estimates the wheat crop of the three big Northwestern States at 130,000,000 bushels, which would indicate a total crop, winter and apring together, of not over 370,000,000 bushels, which would indicate a total crop, winter and aging the hitherto magnificent corn crop in Kansas and Nebraska. The May shorts took in a lot of their contracts. September closed with an advance of 1c. Trading in oats was only fairly active, September closing ¼c lower. POMONA. POMONA, July 16.—(Regular Correspondence.) On Thursday, the 18th, the North Main-street saloon will be among "the things that were, but are no longer," as the license of Sam J. Gillmore for running the business of dis-pensing liquors at said place granted by the Pomona Board of City Trustees under certain restrictions and require-ments of the old high-license liquor ordinance will expire at midnight of said day. So it stands the merchants in hand to have a full supply of demijohns, nand to have a full supply of demijohns, jugs, small kegs, etc., in stock today and tomorrow.

There is a trite old saying that "it is an ill wind that blows no one good," and so think the local postal force of and so think the local postal force of the Pomona postoffice, now that the re-cent change in the Southern Pacific time-table brings the overland mail from the east on No. 20 via the Sunset route into this depot at 11:50 a.m., thus giving the midday hour instead of just before closing time for handling and giving the midday hour instead of just before closing time for handling and distributing it. The office now has all the overland mails in the forenoon, and yet the public has advantage of a local mail for Los Angeles at the same hour as before, 5:39 o'clock in the afternoon. The custom most generally approved by thinking people these days, of closing the doors of dry goods stores and similar establishments at 6:30 p.m., has been adopted by one or two leading firms in Pomona.

nitely postponed. Mr. Pillig has gone to the mountains for the summer.

The young people in Pomona are all agog at the preparations for the Barrows-Nichols wedding festivities at the Nichols home on Thursday evening.

Notwithstanding the warmth of the past week, building operations are going on in every part of town. The number of new houses in course of erection in Pomona is a pleasing surprise to all our people.

The subject of a new operahouse is agitated more than ever. The present structure was built in 1886, when Pomona was a little, struggling hamlet, and there were none better than it in any of the country towns outside of Los Angeles. Pomona has now a population of over 5500 people, and has added some 4500 to her population since that operahouse was built. It is a cheap, old wooden rattle-trap structure, used as an armory by Co. D., N. G. C., and as an operahouse when any theatrical company comes along or our people get up a home-talent affair. Co. D would gladly rent a better and larger apartment for an armory if it could be had about town.

He loved his home and the country life, And he wanted a tender little wife; he wished to live in peace and ease, In the shade of his spreading old cim trees. But the maiden bade him go and win A name she could prize and glory in. She said she would wait and wed nim when hie had made his place in the ranks of men.

Then the boy plunged into the city's roar, And he learned the market's sordid lore, And he learned that life is an awful fight, Where the wounded fall to the left and right. And he gained new strength from his van ished foes;
As he overcame them and beat them down He grew in wealth and wide renown.

But his heart was cold. He forget to feel; His chilling smile had the glow of steel, His brain grew keen and his face grew hard As he stood victor, seamed and scarred.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO.

On this day, twenty-five years ago, began the most notable European war since the memorable one that culmi-July 17, 1870, the Franco-Prussian war virtually commenced, and on Septem ber 2, 1870-only forty-seven days-the French army capitulated to the Germans at Sedan, Napoleon III was a prisoner and the second French empire rst like a bubble.

Sedan was the culminating point in that war, begun with noisy, self-confion the part of France, and accepted so quietly on the part of Prussia and her confederated North-Ger man States. It is true, there was the subsequent siege of Paris and the occupation of nearly all France; but the master-stroke was rendered at Sedan, and all else followed in logical sequence, viz: The humiliation of France and the consolidation of the German empire with its twenty-five states, m big Prussia down to little Waldeck and Schaumburg-Lippe. Gambetta and other patriotic Frenchmen strove heroically with the materials left by the vanished empire, but in "The stars in their course fought against Sisera." During the whole of the campaign the only flag taken by France from the Germans was singular to relate, not wrested from the enemy by Frenchmen, but by brave old Garibaldi, with his Italian legionthe very men whom imperial France had despised, and whose companions been shot down by imperia French troops at Mentana, near Rome in November, 1867, and at which time their leader (Garibaldi,) was taken prisoner in the midst of the bloody

The disastrous overthrow of France has been told a thousand times, but there has recently appeared in Paris a work by the French general, Le Brun, entitled "Souvenirs Militaires, 6-1870." dealing with recollections of the Austro-Prussian war (which ended so unfortunately for Austria at Sadowa, July 3, 1866,) and with the souvenirs of the short campaign which so suddenly closed at Sedan. Leaving out all consideration of the Austrossian war of 1866, except to say that Louis Napoleon and his states men, generals, etc., rankled over the defeat of Austria at Sadowa, for they saw the supremacy of Prussia in Europe. Therefore, if was determined. at any cost, to pick a quarrel with Prussia. Louis Napoleon was great at making combinations, but they generally "fizzled out," as notably the one which was to spread monarchy in the new world by an attempt on Mexico; but England and Spain (which ha been induced to enter the combination,) saw through the "little game" and withdrew. And now Gen. le Brun, at this late day, lets us more completely behind the curtains, and shows us the attempted combination by Napoleon III of France and Austria overthrow Prussia. Napoleon III. and Gen, le Brun also, counted upon obtaining the services of bluff, bold anuel with one hundred sand Italians to come down on Prussians. But the Emperor on III, must have counted without his host, for history, revealed by the state papers of Germany and Italy atly published, shows that Italy had ady entered into an alliance with sda. However, let us return to our uvenirs Militaires" of Gen. le on personally (after the first visit of the Austrian Archduke Albert o Paris early in the spring of 1870, e directions to Gen. le Brun to go lenna to prepare a plan for the in-on of Germany by the whole les of France and Austria and 100,alians, which last the Emperor sed that Victor Emanuel would posed that Victor Emanuel would be them. high hand. The Italians were to occupy Munich permanently and the Southern States of Germany were to be detached from their Northern German alliance. Gen. le Brun was already known to have left Paris for Vienna, on May 28. He, instead of go ing directly to the capital of Austria, went by way of Berlin, in order to throw the Germans off the scent, but he did not know what wise old watchdogs Bismarck and Von Moltke were They knew his every movement. Gen. le Brun, once at Vienna, had conference after conference with the Archduke Albert. Le Brun said that the French within fifteen days, could cross the frontier with 400,000 men. The Archduke gravely assured that the Prus sians could not place in line so large a force, and that not in thirty days. To anticipate, what does history show in regard to these astute calculations First, the French never reached 250,-000 upon the frontier; and they were attacked by the Germans at a much earlier date than had been named for the full mobilization of the German forces, and that, too, by enormousl greater numbers than had been pro nounced possible. Indeed, the German mobilization took half of the tim and produced double the forces which had been calculated by Austria, and the French mobilization took double le Brun at Vienna. Gen. le Brun, after completing the whole of his arrangements with the Archduke, found that Austria abso lutely refused to declare war on the same date as France, and that the Austrian mobilization would take fortytwo days. Austria would only promis to begin her mobilization on the day when France should declare war on Germany.

the time and produced only half the forces estimated at those conferences between the Archduke (the generalissimo of the Austrian forces,) and Gen.

Gen. le Brun tells us in his "Sonvenirs" that, after he had finished his conferences with the Archduke, he conwith the Emperor Francis Joseph in person, and "His Im perial Majesty was quite frank on the subject in hand, for he "made it quite clear that the war must be so brought about as, in the first place, to seem forced upon him; and, in the second place, brought about with a certainty of success. He had already risked two unsucessful wars, and the third must be successful." The Austrian Emperor referred to the war which ended disastrously for Austria at Solferino, Italy, June 24, 1859, and to that short, sharp, decisive campaign which closed at Sadowa seven years afterward. The Austrian generalissimo, Archduke Albert, made it an absolute condition that the declaration of war should not be later than the spring of 1871. It is pretty certain from this French general's book that the Germans knew that they would be attacked, at lea by France and Austria, in April, 1871 But the "Iron Chancellor" anticipated his enemies by forcing the candidature for the Spanish throne in such a way as to drive the French government into immediate war. The Austrians, seeing the slowness and confusion of the French preparations, and finding that Italy would have nothing to do with an invasion of Germany, did not even commence their promised mobilization.

Austria completely withdrew. We all know the results of that short campaign which ended at Sedan. A quarter of a century ago there was no united Germany, there was no republican France. And who shall say that the world is not better for the Issue of the Franco-Prussian war?

PROGRESS AND THE PRINTING PRESS.

The age is one of ceaseless action one of uninterrupted progress. Its march is onward toward a broader scope of thought, larger activities and nobler effort. The yesterdays of the world were but the seed-time of to day, which is the harvest season of human action. But there are way-marks along the ath that Progress is treading which indicate the advance civilization is making and the steps that from tim to time she has taken, and which have marked epochs in our history.

The advance in the art of printing is ne of these, and perhaps there is no one thing in modern civilization that illus trates so fully the difference between he civilization of a century ago and that of today as the changes that have taken place in the printing-press and the printing art.

Fifty years ago, even, the art of printing was a slow and tedious pro cess, depending almost wholly upon physical effort. The aid of steam had not been evoked in its behalf. Inven tion had not given the world the swiftly revolving press. The only power that was then recognized was platen" press, and the brawny arms of the pressman. The large daily edion was an impossibility, and it was tedious process to perfect the weekly edition and make it ready for the world on the old hand presses of those

But with the growing intelligence of the century men demanded greater facilities for knowledge. Humanity was astir and breaking from the old shell of ignorance and isolation. Modern enlightenment desired to stand upon the high levels where the race should be in touch, and nations should stand face to face with each other where sunrise and sunset should clasp hands and he who stood at the doors of the West should know all that was transpiring at the gates of the East. With only the old hand press as a servant, it would have been impossible have satisfied these desires. Had not something to answer it. The old hand telligence and the general knowledge of today would never have been pos

But, as has always been the case in the history of the race, with every supreme demand that arises there is something to answer it. The old hand press had seen its day, and out of the necessity which had been created for something better, human invention gave us, first, the single-cylinder, the simplest form of steam-power press. Then came the double-cylinder, which was soon succeeded by the four-cylinder, the six-cylinder, the eight-cylinder, and even the ten-cylinder machines, which latter, in order to find room for their great bulk and unwieldly operation, were placed in the cellar, while their tops rose far up toward the roof. Then came the rotary or "perfecting" press, that marvel of human skill, so wonderful in its working that it seems as if endowed with human intelligence and mental force, and before it the old hand press sinks into eternal shadow. It is now only a faint, far-off memory the mere germ of the present-day press, which marks the closing years of the century. As already described recently in these columns, this press working at a high rate of speed on the rotary principle, and employing curved stereotype plates, instead of flat type-forms, and using a continuous web or roll of paper, instead of single flat sheets, turns out the paper printed, cut, folded, pasted counted and delivered at the end of the machine, at the running speed of from 12,000 to 24,-000 per hour, according to the number of pages produced at a given time; the several operations named following each other in such quick succession as to be practically simultaneous in their occurrence.

Let us contrast for a moment the capacity of the hand press and those marvelous inventions of today, another one of which The Times has so recently put in place within its press-room, and which produces ready for the reader's hands, complete newspapers, of a vary-ing number of pages, from four to twenty-four, at a running speed of 12,000 and 24,000 sheets per hour, re spectively according to size.

Let us make some comparisons: Last Sunday's issue consisted of 20,000 copies of a twenty-eight page sheet. To do the work of printing that edition on an old-fashioned Washington hand press, working but four pages at one operation, and upon one side of the sheet only, would involve 280,000 separate "impressions." Putting the rate of speed on the hand press at a "token" an hour, or 240 "impressions, on one side of the sheet only, every 60 minutes, it would require a hand pressman to work 1160 hours, or 110 days, of ten hours each, in order to complete the edition which was printed in about four hours, by the "Columbia and the "Old Guard" working to gether last Sunday morning.

What more concise and forcible con mentary could be made on the advance which the country has undergone within a half century?

WHO WOULD BE BENEFITED?

If, as the advocates of free-silver coinage claim, the opening of the mints to silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 would bring the bullion value of that metal up to a parity with gold, who would gain anything by the operation? Clearly, no one but the silver-mine owners, who would receive nearly twice as much for their product as they now receive.

If, on the other hand, free coinage sent the country to a silver basis, as it certainly would, the loss would fall upon nearly every citizen, rich or poor. A few persons, comparatively, would be benefited by the opportunity to pay their debts in depreciated currency. Yet the alleged "benefits" so received aside from the question of honestywould be far less than would appear at first glance; for nearly every debtor is also a creditor, and vice versa. In robbing Peter to pay Paul, and again robbing Paul to pay Peter, there would be no great gain to either.

But aside from this phase of the question, the payment of a debt in depreclated currency would be in itself a dishonest transaction such as no man could conscientiously approve. The free-silverites, in holding out this prospect to tempt the cupidity of thought-less or dishonest voters, display their own lack of sound principles. A party which puts forward as the principa plank of its platform a financial wholesale repudiation of nearly 50 per cent, of all debts, can never win the voters. The American people, as a whole, are honorable, and believe in paying their honest debts in honest money.

Now watch and see Chicago "chew the rag." The London Spectator ad-ministers this victors slap to the ministers this vicious slap to the Windy City:

"The wild and whirling words of hysterical agitators, spiritual and political, must not persuade people into thinking that Chicago, with its strange and feverish crowd of Bohemlans, Italians, Polish Jews., Hungarians and Germans, is the normal American city, or that it represents the permanent and conquering element in American life. It is an agiy enough boil on the body politic and doubtless far from healthful, but we have no sort of doubt that it will pass away and be absorbed into the healthier jissues of the Union. Meantime, let us learn to look on the nobler and far more real, if less sensa-tional side of American life."

ional side of American life." As if this were not enough to fill Chi cago's cup of bitterness, the Spectator goes on to bestow high praise the America of New England, of Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Columbia-the America where the sane and whole some conditions of the English race exist in as perfect health as on this side of the water, and where honest living, high thinking and sound learning flourish and abound." Now, then!

Capt. Cook, many years ago, abused he hospitality of the Hawaiians. They killed him, and some chroniclers say they ate him. Joseph Cook got more easily. In essaying to criticise the Cleveland adminstration at a meet ing held in Honolulu on July 4, at which Minister Willis presided, Mr. Cook chose a very inopportune time and place for making his strictures The truth is mighty and will prevail, no doubt. But there are occasions when the truth need not be spoken.

Every citizen seem to have become possessed of an uncontrollable thirst since the saloons have been closed on Sunday, and a thereof. The Baltimore Sun nominates Secre tary Carlisle for President in 1896, on the Democratic ticket, and suggests as his running-mate "some man who wore the gray" in the 60s. A brilliant suggestion, truly. But isn't it rather sing ular that the Baltimore paper didn't demand the first place for "some man who wore the gray?"

The Railroad Age of July 5 has this to say of the fake "railroad men's railroad;"

"It is not to be believed that many railway men will allow themselves to be persuaded into sinking their hard-carned money in stock of the imaginary 'San Diego, Pacific and Eastern Railway, which a few enthusiastic but impractical promoters are now talking up. To build and equip a railway from San Diego to Sait Lake, say 800 miles, would cost probably $25,000,000, and it is proposed to raise the money for this gigantic undertaking by selling the capital stock to railway employees throughout the country at $10 per share. It is to be a railwaymen's road, they are told; railway employees only will be allowed to control the stock, and stockholders only will be given employment on the road. In the face of the fact that no transcontinental railway is even earning interest on its bonds, trainmen and clerks are told that the stock of this road is sure to pay regular dividends, and they are exhorted to hand over their money to men destitute of financial experience and reputation and utterly without knowledge in regard to the construction, operation and management of railways, in exchange for certificates of stock which will never be worth the paper on which they are printed. Some railway men will probably be fooled in subscribing money enough to keep the promoters of this wild scheme talking for a while and then the bubble will break and the stockholders will lament their creduilty."

Freight Rates Are Being Cut Up North-E. Chambers Appointed Assistant General Freight

An Associated Press dispatch from San Francisco announced that A. N. Towne, second vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific died suddenly at his residence in that city yesterday morning.

Mr. Towne had been in his office all day Monday, and until 5 p.m. transacting the usual business of his office. He spent the evening at home and retired in good spirits. He retired feeling quite well, but at 2 a.m. complained of violen pains in his stomach, supposed to be in cident to indigestion, from which he suffered. A physician who was sum-moned applied remedies which seemed to afford relief. Symptoms of conges-tion and hemorrhages followed. At 4 a.m., Mr. Towne complained of a violent land and one two miles east of there, toward Covina. About seventy-five teams in all are making the dirt fly in a way to delight the people at the east end of the San Gabriel Valley. The grading is very light in all that region, and with so large a force the time is near at hand when all that magnificent territory from Woydon, by way of Vineland, Covina and San Dimas, to Pomona, will be brought into direct rail communication with our city.

LOW RATES WANTED. A strenous effort will be made by the Executive Committee of the National Educational Association to induce the transcontintal railroads to make a transcontintal railroads to make a rate of one fare for the round trip, from points in the East to Los Angeles, during the sessions of the association, which are expected to be held here next summer. This rate was made to Denver at the last meeting of the association, and was the means of bringing over fifteen thousand people to that city.

Since then he has had several similar attacks, but lately has been in excellent health. Alban Nelson Towne was born May 26, 1829, at Dresser Hill, in southern part of Charfton, Worcester county, Mass., being the son of Nelson Parker and Julia A. Towne. He was successively carpenter, shoemaker and painter. Then he sold paint as a business, afterward engaging in general merchandise. He removed to Illinois in 1855 and soon followed the example of his brothers in securing employment on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, since which he was consecutively to 1868, freight and passenger conductor and station agent; yard and trainmaster at Chicago, and assistant superintendent of the Same road; general superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington and Great Eastern Railway; in 1869 to September, 1869, assistant general superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad; September, 1869, to May, 1882, general superintendent of the Centrai Pacific Railroad; May, 1882, to February, cutting, is going on both north and south of San Francisco. Opposition steamers between the Columbia River and Puget Sound ports have again forced larger corporations to make special rates to Portland, Astoria, Seattle and Tacoma. One dollar per ton is charged for freight to these points, and passenger rates have again dropped to $10 to Puget Sound points, first-class, and $8 to Portland and Astoria. The steamer Washtenaw is advertised to sail for Panama direct in opposition to the Pacific Mail.

He heard incident-ally that a man had tried to find some one who would carry to the Los Angeles Farming and Milling Company a check for $91, and have it cashed. The detective went out to look for the man with the check, and at about 4:30 o'clock he nabbed him at the Phoenix Block. The young fellow, who gave his name as William Burr, produced the check, purporting to be signed by L. A. Redden, foreman of the Los Angeles Farming and Milling Company's ranch, in favor of William Enseth, for $91. The detective proposed to Burr to go to the company's office and verify the genuineness of the paper, and, though the man assured the detective that the check was all right, the suspicion of forgery still stuck.

"Is this check yours?" asked the detective.

"I bought it of Enseth and paid full value for it," was the man's reply. The detective looked at him out of the corners of his eyes, and said simply: "Well, we will search you before we believe your story."

When the prisoner found that he was in a fix he drew from his pocket and gave to the detective a bunch of papers, which proved to be six more checks, exact duplicates, payee, payer, signer and amount, of the first one discovered. His confession of guilt, which followed, was unnecessary in the face of this evidence, and he was locked up on the charge of forgery.

and he was locked up on the charge of forgery.

The man is about 30 years old, welf dressed and intelligent. It appears that he had worked upon the ranch, and on previous occasions had cashed two genuine checks signed by Foreman Redden, which had afforded him an opportunity to study the signature, which he had closely imitated.

THE DOWNEY TRAGEDY.

The Inquest Over Ullery's Remains-Divided Feeling.

Owing to the Coroner's absence Monday, the District Attorney ordered the Justice of the Peace at Downey to hold an inquest over the body of M. B. Ullery, the man who was shot and killed by Frank Romer Monday morning. Coroner Campbell, however, returned to the city Monday evening and reached Downey in time for the inquest yesterday and assisted the Justice of the Peace in holding it. The verdict of the jury was to the effect that Ullery came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by France Romer. No new light was shed on the tragedy by the inquest.

Feeling at Downey appears to be divided. While the tragedy is generally deplored and much sympathy is feit for Ullery's young wife, Romer is not condemned as a cold-blooded murderer. Ullery had the reputation of being quarreldemned as a cold-blooded murderer. Ullery had the reputation of being quarrelsome and, it is alleged, that he drew a revolver on a Southern Pacific conductor some time ago. It is also alleged that he drew a revolver and threatened to shoot Romer Sunday evening, while the two we're returning from church, but a woman persuaded him to put the weapon away.

Ullery had been married but a short time, his bride being Miss Rebecca. Wildrick, who was only 18 years old. She is prostrated over her husband's tragic death.

They are going to have a new ceme-tery down in Phoenix, Ariz. This time they didn't have to kill a man to start it.

The shipment of table grapes from Arizona to Chicago continues to prove satisfactory. The variety shipped is Thompson's seedless, an excellent grape, although not a large berry.

The Keeley Institute at the Santa Monica Soldiers' Home has graduated 188 members since its organization two years ago. Over 83 per cent. of the graduates have stood the test of time, and are sober men today.

Whatever effort can be made by our local commercial bodies to assist the National Educational Association in procuring the necessary railroad rate from points in the East to this city, should certainly be made. To secure the visitation of from ten to fifteen thousand school-ma'ams is an unques tioned desideratum.

The bicycle must go-off the 'side walks of Santa Monica; so say the Town Trustees in an ordinance just adopted. Heretofore the scorchers have held undisputed sway down there. summer population and the bicyclers overcrowd the walks, and the authorities have now declared that pedes trians have right-of-way.

Santa Monica's Trustees have ordered a special election to vote upon the proposition of issuing bonds to the amount of $40,000 for the construction of a sewer system. The topic has been er discussion there for a long time, seems to favor the issuance of bonds. The election will be held September 3.

Arizona will have, when it is completed, the largest reservoir in the world. The proposition is to dam the 200 feet on the face, in a high box canyon, and which would be the means of impounding the water back for a distance of twenty miles. It is estimated that by this means sufficient water could be obtained to irrigate most of Pinal county, comprising several hundreds of thousands of acres. The scheme is, in its proportions, a grand one. The estimated cost of construction citizens of Florence, Ariz. amused themselves a few days ago by ster and a rattlesnake. They have a few of that kind of critters left in the Territory. It came off inside a big drygoods box. The first round, writes the Times correspondent, looked favorable for the rattler, but his fun ended right there. The monster gave him a whift of his Gila breath, which knocked the rattler silly, and before he had time to pull himself together the Gila fellow had him by the back of the neck and shook him as a dog would until he had shaken him all to pieces. The fight was awarded to the monster.

The City Council and the Board of Supervisors of San Diego were asked to appropriate the funds of taxpayers in support of the fake San Diego, Pacific and Eastern Railroad. In se comunities such a request might be re-garded as extremely impudent. The route of the paper road has not been determined. The taxpayers of San Diego are asked to vote $36,000 special tax to support their excellent schools this year. In view of this fact and the fact that city improvements have been curtailed because of the lack of funds, the request by paper-railroad promoters is rather "cheeky." They first asked San Diego for "moral sup-port" only. But the milk in the cocoa-nut seems to be cash after all. Some this enterprise decline to pay it.

The San Diego chicken story of the worken who planted cards with pertinent suggestions to chicken-keepers worken who planted cards with pertinent suggestions to chicken-keepers written thereon, attaching them to string and grains of corn, beforehand, is matched by the ingenuity of a Pasadena chicken-keeper. He had neighbors who objected to the crowing of his roosters at the break of day, and in the small hours of the night, and after much cogitation evolved an idea which was successfully put into execution. He tied a string around the neck of every rooster, loosely enough for the fowl to be able to swallow its food, but whenever Mr. Rooster swelled out his throat to crow, the string choked him and he didn't "clarion," and couldn't. The hens, discouraged by the perpetual silence of their lords, are as dumb as oysters, and the philanthropic man and his neighbor live in peace and harmony, and sleep until 7 o'clock every morning, though there are a hundred dejected, silent and pondering fowls who don't seem to be able to comprehend the mussie that has been put on the string species."

AVALON (Catalina Island.) July 16.-(By Homing-pigeon Philopena of the Catalina Carrier-pigeon Sérvice to The Times.) The guests of the Metropole and New Island Villa hotels and their friends enjoyed a delightful hop last evening in the dining-room of the Met-ropole, which had been cleared for the occasion. A stringed orchestra fur-nished excellent music, punch was served from side tables during the evening and later, a dainty supper in the or-dinary. Fully one hundred and fifty peo-ple were present and the affair throughple were present and the affair through-out was thoroughly enjoyed. Messrs. Roscoe and Goodwin, in the capacity of hotel hosts, made every one feel genu-inely at home, no trace of stiff formality marring the pleasure of the evening. J C. Cline also lent a hand in creating a happy air of camraderie, and these weekly hops are destined to be a popu-lar feature of entertainment.

THAT SAN JOSE FISHING CLUB. It is not often that people entertain royalty unawares, but Catalina just now has a distinguished party of guests now has a distinguished party of guests at the Metropole, who sport their royal titles with an air of bonhomie that is multiplying—namely, the San Jose Fishing Club.

The head of this company is known as King H. J. Edwards, and his 290 pounds of avoirdupols carry the royal honor gracefully.

The person next in rank is His Lordship, James V. Kelly, who hobnobs with royalty, and received this title from his admiring constituents, through the high honors poured upon him by the Prince of Wales, heir to the throne of England. When the Prince visited America he was entertained in New York by Mr. Kelly, who has since returned the visit and was royally entertained on the Prince's farm at Windsor. Whenever the Prince's yacht, Britannia, wins a race, Mr. Kelly is notified of the interesting fact by cable from His Highness. It is needless to say that, with all these attentions showered upon him from such high source. Lord Kelly really occupies the place of honor next to the King in this San Jose delegation.

Next in rank comes the Earl of Menio. Col. Prior of San Francisco, whose signature to a check with four ciphers would be honored on sight anywhere. Then comes Duke C. A. Barker, Capt. James Sennett and His Honor, Fred Moore, who, though not yet Mavor of the city of San Jose, will be as soon as he gets out of the City Council.

This royal party came in such a quiet, undemonstrative way that they had been on the island twenty-four hours before the eagle-eyed Times correspondent discovered their royal identity.

It is a matter of note that at the recent banquet tendered this distinguished party by J. B. Banning, a conspicuous feature of the floral decorations was a magnificent crown placed before the plate of Lord Kelly, indicative of his intimate relationship with the future crowned head of England.

The gentlemen go about in the most unanfected way, the royal insignia being merely a two-linch here of trousers turned up at the bottom, which indicate that they are born to the purple, Yesterday they began their fishing record with three monster jewfish, the largest of which, the entire party unite in declaring at the point of the bayonet, will tip the scales at exactly the same note has the series of the rod, and these were last evening packed in ice and dispatched via the early beat this morning

Something about the class of remnants that are on sale at one-half the marked price; they consist principally of allwool dress goods, cotton wash dress goods, silks, velvets and a few shirtings.

In this lot of remnants we notice silks that have been selling for $1 a yard, the remnant price is now 50c a yard; one-half of this would bring them down to 25c a yard. Other remnants that have been selling in the piece for $2 a yard were reduced to a remnant price and again this is cut in the center. Velvets share the same fate; every remnant of every kind goes to one-half.

You will find a large lot of cotton wash goods remnants: these are being eagerly picked up; they are fine values at the price; sateens as low as 64c a yard; dimities and white goods; ducks that have been 15c go to 71/2c.

Shirtings

That have been 10c a yard go to 5c a yard; just a few good things are left in the shirting line.

All-wool Dress Goods

Suitable for separate skirts and for children's wear; there is a grand line of these goods and all are being sold for onehalf the marked price.

For the convenience of the trade the remnants are all on one counter on the north side of the store; plenty of room and plenty of help to wait upon the trade.

BEACH, July 16 .- (Special the Chautauqua assembly opened day under very fayorable circum-lannees. The hopes which have been ntertained for a profitable and inter-sting session are blossoming with all dications pointing to a full fruitage. he annual assembly is the great event in Long Beach, as it should be, for it should be a great event in any city which is so fortunate in location and other advantages as to be able to give it a home. Long Beach as a city would do well to vote a tax upon itself towards the erection of suitable buildings and grounds to the end that no other city might ever tempt the organization to make its home in more pleasant grounds and more commodious and convenient buildings elsewhere. For a beautiful park, in which should stand a graceful edifice for assembly purposes, with neat buildings nestling in the grove about it, and rooms opening from the Assembly Hall for the accommodation of a model summer school, Southern California would give thanks. Summer schools are becoming very popular, and, for those who wish to keep abreast of modern thought and modern methods of investigation, are an absolute necessity. Long live the Chautauqua idea, and long live the Chautauqua idea, and long live the Summer school.

Mrs. Anna S. Averill gave her opening lecture in English literature at 10 o'clock. She urged close application to be well-planned course of study as opposed to a butterfly sort of gathering of sweetness from book flowers here that there. Choose books wholesome fruthful, stimulating to the best and moblest living. Personal needs and tastes should direct us. Do not choose husks for the hunger when the full gorn in the ear is close at hand. Everal the foundation of all literary attainments, the Bible fills the first and most important place. Next to the Bible hakespeare ranks highest. One well versed in these two books has a wealth of healthful, stimulating food that never palls upon the taste. Mrs. Averill has selected "King Lear" from Shakespeare for study according to the following outline: (a) Historical setting and plot; (b) Analysis of scenes; (c) Quotations and readings; (d) Characterization papers—1, Lear; 2, fool; 3, the brothers, 4, the sisters; (e) Ethics of the play. Among essayists, Carlyle, Emerson and Ruskin have been selected; in fiction, Hawthorn; in poetry, Lowell and Tennyson.

The afternoon lecture was preceded by a recitation by Miss Marion Gertrude Hards of Ontarlo, who recited "The Kitchen Clock," and, in response to a recall, gave "A Similiar Case."

Prof. A. J. Cook of Pomena gave in his most entertaining way a lecture on "Physiology with the Manikin." The lecturer spoke of proper foods and the proper manner of their selection. Starch is indispensable. Thirst and languor from shirst are the calling out of the proper manner of their selection. Starch is indispensable. Thirst and languor from thirst are the calling out of the dissues for their important constituent. The stomach is a good organ for use in selecting food. Eat those things the stomach craves, is a safe rule. The process of digestion may be observed by the use of a test tube, with the proper digestive fluids, an interesting experiment. We may live many days without food or water, but not many minutes without oxygen, therefore breathe only ourse air. Ventilate your rooms and food or water, but not many minutes without oxygen, therefore breathe only pure air. Ventilate your rooms and prevent consumption. Better let the air currents blow in upon you if you are properly clad than to shut yourself in a close room. You need not take the currents, but lift the window and let in the air and live. Drafts are more the creation of the imagination than a creature of reality. The professor illustrated what he had to say by the manakin, bringing a life-sized one before the audience and giving a most interesting description of the organs as he used them.

HIS LAST DRINK.

A YOUNG MAN SHOOTS HIMSELF IN A SALOON.

Death Was Instantaneous-The Suicide's Name Thought to be Frank Burrows-His Despondency Over Drink Was Probably the Cause

"This is the last," were the words of a brawny and rather handsome, though somewhat dissipated-looking young man at precisely 9 o'clock yes-terday evening as he tossed off a terday evening as he tossed off a bumper of whiskey in P. H. Domin-guez's saloon at the corner of Com-mercial and Wilmington streets. Then to make good his words, he rushed into

to make good his words, he rushed into the water closet at the rear of the sailoon and put a bullet through his brain. It surely was the last drink for him and the last act of his life, for before any one could reach the spot to find out the cause or the result of the shot, the young man was dead.

"Frank has killed himself!" exclaimed the barkeeper, who was the first to reach the place. An excited crowd soon gathered at the scene of the shooting, but no one touched the body untl a man, a little bolder than the rest, went up to the body and took the pistol from the dead man's hand. Some one telephoned to the Coroner and presently Robert Garrett's deadwagon came and took the body to the morgue.

some one telephoned to the Coroner and presently Robert Garrett's deadwagon came and took the body to the morgue.

"Who is the suicide?" was the question that every new-comer asked of the persons who were in the saloon when the tragedy occurred. "Why, Frank," was the invariable answer, and that was about as near his identity as anyone could come.

"Frank" was well known to the proprietor and habitues of the saloon, but no one seemed to know him except by his Christian name. Several persons, however, thought his surname was Bird, Burle, Burrill, Burley, Burleigh, or Burrows. The proprietor of the saloon thought it was Burle. The only name in the city directory that corresponds is Frank Burrows, painter, residence No. 326 Winston avenue.

The dead man, whatever his name, was a painter by trade, and is sald to have a brother flamed Charley, working as a feeder in the press-room of the Record. A number of persons about the saloon who knew him, said he was well connected, having a brother-lin-law who is an officer of one of the leading banks of this city. No one, however, could tell what particular banker was his relative.

Burrows (assuming that to be his name) was about 20 years of age. He was a brown hair. He was tolerably well dressed, but did not have any money, papers or valuables of any kind in his pockets.

He was a frequent visitor to Dominguez's saloon, spending a good portion of his evenings there, drinking and playing pool. For the last two weeks he had been drinking pretty hard. Monday night he was in the saloon, and played pool till a late hour. Yesterday afternoon and evening he again visited the blace.

The barkeeper stated that while Frank was in the saloon an acquaint-afternoon and evening he again visited the place.

The barkeeper stated that while Frank was in the saloon an acquaintance entered, whom he invited to drink with him. The two men sat down at a table and talked in a friendly fashion while the drinks were being served. As soon as Frank had swallowed his whisky he rose and exclaimed: "This is the last," then walked rapidly to the water-closet in the rear, from which the sound of the pistol shot came a moment later.

The barkeeper and others went at once to investigate, and found the man sitting down with a bullet wound in the right temple and a 38-callbre bull-dog revolver clutched in his left hand between his legs. He was then already dead, death apparently having been instant.

From all accounts despondency over drink must have caused him to take his own life. Coroner Campbell will hold an inquest today.

A SWIMMING EXHIBITION.

A Prictical Lesson in Rescuing the Drowning.

The Natatorium was crowded last evening with the people who had gathered for a lesson in practical life-saving. The audience picked up a good many practical lints, and the people were very much interested in the affair. Frederick H. Killick, the expert who gave last evening's exhibition, stepped forth in bathing costume and was introduced by Mr. Quinan, acting secretary of the Y.M.C.A. After a few words to the audience Mr. Killick dived and swam the length of the tank under water, showing the value of slow movements for such work. He went on to exhibit swimming by the hands alone, swimming with the limbs curled as in cramp and many other varieties.

Then came examples of the proper alone, swimming with the limbs curled as in cramp and many other varieties.

Then came examples of the proper manipulation of the life-line, in which Mr. Killick was assisted by Messrs. Sheckles and Rice. Mr. Killick retired for a few moments, and Messrs. Rice, Hymer and Sheckles amused the audience during his absence by all sorts of fancy swimming, high diving, trapeze-swinging and aquatic monkey-shines.

The life-saver returned clad in heavy garments such as are worn in Canada in the depth of winter. He announced that if non-swimmers who fell into the water would only remain perfectly quiet, the air in their clothes would buoy them up for several minutes, often till help arrived. He tried the experiment, but sank in forty seconds, owing to the fact that he was wearing an oil-skin suit which was very heavy and easily saturated.

Mr. Killick next cast aside all his heavy clothes, while floating about the tank. The audience then departed with a hearty cheer for the clever-swimmer.

COUNT VON HOUBERT.

HE HAS SOME WORDS TO SAY IN

le Denies Having Exercised Any Improper Influence Over Symington and Says His Conduct Has Been

When Fred O. Houbert, known both When Fred O. Houbert, known both as Count and doctor, returned from his sojourn up in Holcomb Valley, accompanied by his wife and her son, he visited the newspaper offices to denounce as untrue the stories that had been published about his practising black art upon W. D. Symington, former husband of Mrs. Houbert. He said, Monday evening, that he wanted his side of the story published, and The Times, which is always fair, offered him the opportunity to make public what he had to say in refutation of the charges and insinuations made by the charges and insinuations made by the charges and insinuations made by

Knights of Pythias and the law officers, but his statement is here given in full:

"To The Times: An account appeared in your paper of July 13, 1895, about a 'strange story,' as you seemingly call it, about Dr. Fred O. Houbert, or, as you term it, Count Fred O. Houbert, where you accuse said party of slowly poisoning Mrs. Dr. Houbert's first husband, one W. D. Symington, whose life is insured for $1000 in favor of his former wife. You furthermore state that Mrs. Symington procured a divorce from her husband on the ground of desertion, but instead, Mr. Symington procured a divorce from his wife on grounds which you will find in the court records. It is true that Mr. Symington continued to live with Mr. and Mrs. Houbert as a brother man on purely true and honorable principles, but nothing else, and true and honorable men and women can live together as brothers and sisters. If one really understood the true principles of life, there would be no such misery and crimes as is at the present time manifested by mankind. As regards Malcohn Matheson reported statement, it is a lie from beginning to end, for I have never under any circumstances prophesied Mr. Symington's death, but instead, Matheson told me distinctly twice that on the journey to Victor he thought Symington was dying and that if he should die in the mountains it would be a bad thing for Dr. Houbert. As to Mr. Pinther, Malcohn Matheson and Mr. Warren (whom I do not know.) I never saw them together at all and never had any conversation with them about Symington. As to 'the evidence purported to be given by Symington's little boy as to his mother telling him the spirits had revealed to her that his father would pass away in July, I leave here a space for the boy's own evidence as regards to the matter. (The boy denies that he ever said anything on the subject.) The suspicion aroused by Malcohn Matheson as regards to D. Houa space for the boy's own evidence as regards to the matter. (The boy deales that he ever said anything on the subject.) The suspicion aroused by Malcohn Matheson as regards to Dr. Houbert, was this; that Dr. H. demanded restitution for goods bought by him under false misrepresentations by Matheson to the amount of $\frac{144}{244}$. Then, instead of restoring the goods and money (and his reputation for such work is well known) he left for Los Angeles to bring forth the falsehoods, which have been printed in your paper and the proof will be brought forth from Mr. Symington himself, as to the falsity of the stetment of my, attempting to poison or in any way injure him. Your informant also states that Mr. S. drew a benefit of $10 which is false as it was $16 and the paltry, sum was not appropriated for my personal benefit as was supposed. As to Dr. H. signing himself as to being Physician in charge that is false (I stated under the Dr's care not Dr. H's care) as I simply gave a certificate of examination stating his inability to work and that, I had a right to do so I have two Diplomas which entitle me to that priviledge, I did not prescribe for him as I know the laws of the State that any one practicing medicine requires to be registered and I am not and never claimed to be, for further statment in regard to this you will hear from Mr. Symington. According to the case as I found it through my examination I will state that it is purely internal cancer close to the vertebre and I can prove it has been it is purely internal cancer close to the vertebre and I can prove it has been of long standing and the cause was a surgeons knife used by an unskilled hand long years ago. As regards Mr. S's life assurance that it is said i am seeking for that is a lie, for when my affairs are settled (which will be very soon) I ask no favors of any man. As to Mr. S. returning to the Valley from Victor that is not so as he went to Escondido at the request of the K. of P's who seemingly made it their business to blackmail me behind my back instead of coming to me as gentlemen ought to do, to enquire into the case as to the truthfulness thereof, but instead, took a 'blacklegs' statement. Acording to the 'Law and Rituals' they must find sufficient evidence before accusing a Bro K of P. and thro this they are liable to lose their charter and I will see to it (It is sometimes better to know just who a man is before accusing him of an offence, and especially a criminal one) As regards threatening letter written to Matheson I demanded restitution and stated certain facts as regards law suit now pending with one Bernap or Burnet—how he Matheson had stated to me how he would defeat Justice for B—by swearing falsely on opposite side for which he would get $1000 I asked him if he would with me to give said evidence in court As regards the statement that I claimed the Czar offered me $400,000,000 as a settlement of my account in Russia that is false, for I never stated to any one the aimount of property. In regards to San Diego property, that is my business, and furthermore if I have as many millions as is reported, it is not any American's business, as I can take care of my personal property. In regards to San Diego property, that is my business. At Long Beach I have none at present. In Los Angeles I would not have any even if given me. And as to the report of my immense wealth that I did not refuse never-the-less to accept loose change when thrown in my way—there is no one who can truthfully say they have ever given me one farthing in my life to which I was not rightfully entitled. As to Dancenhacher I know nothing of any such man. Furthermore as regards one who calls himself Col. G. Barbee see'y and treasurer of Farmers

THE HUMANE SOCIETY. The Board of Directors Received the Monthly Report. The board of directors of the Los Angeles Humane Society met last evening at 414 West Adams street, when D. S. Hutchins, the agent of the society, pre-sented his report for the month of June, from which some interesting facts are to be taken facts are to be taken.

Four wayward girls were found and taken home. In seven cases parents were warned that their children were keeping bad company. Sixteen children were found in charge of improper parents. Three were removed to new and better homes. If the parents continue to neglect the others, they too will be removed later. Eight incorrigibles were reported and found. Warning were given, but these children had not done enough to merit prosecution.

Marning were reported and found. Warning were given, but these children had not done enough to merit prosecution.

The California Children's Home Society has proved a valuable adjunct, for it is prepared to make or find a home for every child who needs one. Thus the Humane Society can handle cases which it could not otherwise properly dispose of.

The agent found ninety-one horses working in the city when insufficiently shod. They were all ordered sent to the blacksmith's for attention. Thirty-eight horses were found suffering from excessive over-draw checks. The drivers in most dases willingly remedied this when the evil effects were explained. In fifteen cases drivers were warned against unnecessarily whipping their horses, and the warning was generally kindly received. The agent permanently suspended from work thirteen old, worn-out horses found in use in this city. Nine horses which had been abandoned to starvation were shot, since no other disposition could be made of them. Their owners were not found. Horses and mules were overloaded in six cases. The majority of the above cases occurred in the river-bed, among teams hauling sand and gravel. Some deserved prosecution, but since the agent was alone when these abuses were noted, the lack of corroborating evidence would have made a conviction doubtful. The men were warned. Six horses were over-driven. One case was unsuccessfully prosecuted, warnings were given in the others. Six cases were reported of cruel beating of horses and mules. The guilty parties could not be found. Mr. Hutchins concludes his report by saying:

"If eel justified in stating that the prosecutions so far instituted by the so-

RIVERSIDE, July 16.—(Regular Correspondence.) Judge J. S. Noyes this morning handed down his decision in the mandamus case of M. E. Trowbridge and E. S. Fanoher vs. the Board of Supervisors, in which the plainting prayed that the court order the defendants to issue them a license to sell liquors at their hotel in Perris, they having compiled with all the requirements of the liquor-license ordinance. The decision is in line with a decision in a like case coming down from the Supreme Court, of which mention has heretofore been made, and orders the board to issue the license. It is thought that the ordinance lately passed by the board, amendatory of the old ordinance, will cure the defect so that the board can virtually control the issuing of licenges.

ARE YOU GOOD

At Solving Problems?

TF SO, how many forms of the I letter H do you think can be found in this diagram? The first man who is known to have tried found 82, but he had not a mathematical mind. But what, it may be asked, is there interesting in the letter H? The principal thing for which it has earned world-wide fame is that it is the initial letter of the surname of the great man who discovered the PERFECT combination of Celery, Beef and Iron. Dr. Hen-LEY bears as large a share in the heart of those who have suffered from INDIGESTION, LACK OF APPETITE, "THE BLUES," NERVOUS AND GENERAL DEBILITY INSOMNIA AND, KIDNEY TROUBLES, and who have tried and been cured by his famous prescription, as the black lines do to the space occupied by this advertisement. there is good reason for this spirit of thankfulness. ASK ANY WOMAN who has tried this marvelous remedy as to how much it has done for her when she has been weak, nervous, "done up," or felt pains everywhere. She will tell you—and she will tell you the truth when she says in no uncertain tone:

DARGE BREWERY ASSOCIATION TO BE ESTABLISHED.

The Vexed Servant-girl Question Ha Solved.

An Open Letter to Col. Martin Abou the Militia Trouble-Forged a Check-A Gila Monster and a Rattlesnake Fight.

PHOENIX, July 15.—(Regular Correspondence.) Without doubt Arizona drinks more beer, per capita, than any State in the Union. This trait has requited in extensive preparations for liandling the foaming coolness. A brewery association will immediately look into the proposition of putting up a large cold storage warehouse. A depot into the proposition of putting up a large cold storage warehouse. A depot will be established here from which the various cities in the Territory will be suppiled. The beer will be shipped by the train load and placed in the warehouse, where it will be bottled and reshipped to the consumers in Arizona and New Mexico. THE SERVANT-GIRL QUESTION

The education of Indian girls as household servants is the solution of the vexed servant-girl question. J. Roa Young, agent at the Sacaton Indian Reservation, says there is such a demand for Indian girls as servants throughout the Territory that the capacity of the Phoenix school will be at once increased to five or six hundred and the Sacaton school about one hundred and fifty, and special instruction will be given to girls to fit them for positions as house servants. The girls give good satisfaction in the simpler household duties, are honest and try to please.

A NEW CEMETERY. The growth of the city has included a too great proximity to the city cema too great proximity to the city cemetery. A new cemetery will be opened shortly. City undertakers are now engaged in preparing to open a new one, located about one and a half miles farther west than the present one. Eighty acres have been secured for the purpose, and will be laid out in artistic manner, with wide driveways, and with the intention of covering everything with spreading trees, foliage and grasses.

RECEIVER M'MILLAN'S BOND.

Receiver McMillan of the Gila Bend Canal has filed a new bond. The original bond slumped badly, due to a suit threatened against the bondsmen by the Crowley-Dougherty interests in the canal. The receiver was at Gila Bend at the time, and hastened home, to find a gap of $135,000 in the bond, which looked as big as the hole made by the freshet in the Gila Bend Reservoir two years ago. He explained to all his bondsmen that the claims of the suit were untrue, charging a departure from the plans of the engineers as to dam construction, and disobedience to orders of the court. He further explained that if the allegations were true, departing from the bond would avail nothing. The bondsmen would anylow be held responsible for the past acts of the receiver, and, though suit was only made against those who remained on the bond, if judgment were obtained and execution made against them, they could in turn fall back upon the partners of their responsibility during the period of the receiver's past alleged mismanagement. The only advantage in leaving the bond would be to avoid responsibility for his possible future mistakes. These arguments brought the bond sincluded. The new bond included 3206,000 on the former bond; $211,500 furnished by thirty-eight men is new. There are included altogether in the bond filed and approved yesterday, fitty-nine names. RECEIVER M'MILLAN'S BOND.

GRAPE SHIPMENTS To date nine carloads of the Thomp son's seedless grapes have been shipped to Chicago this season, with eight more to Chicago this season, with eight more of the same variety to follow. Good prices have been realized. Muscats are now beginning to ripen, and will follow the last of the present variety. That the grapes keep well is instanced by a crate picked three weeks ago and packed, and which are now in fine condition.

TUCSON, Jaly 15.—(Regular Correspondence.) The F company of the Tucson militia will "die a-kicking." spondence.) The F company of the Tucson militia will "die a kicking." The non-commissioned officers of the company are out in an open letter to Col. Martin charging that officer with favoritism. In part they say: "Co. D also refused to march when the colonal gave the command. Forward, march!" What is the cause of this distinction and this partiality? Where is that equality under the law? Is it right that in our advanced civilization and refinement a number of young men are charged with crime, judgment rendered against them and they are summarily dealt with, without giving them a fair trial or a chance to defend themselves? Where is the "cquality and justice of our boasted American laws?" Capt. Trayer has requested a postponement of his trial until the return of his counsel, W. J. Hoss, formerly captain in the United States army.

ROASTED THE PREACHER.

Rev. David R. Francis, who wondered that Tucson in its awful depractive had not been hurled from hence into a still more fiery place, has been made the subject of a severe attack by a Tempe paper. Some one told the Tempe News man that Francis had left Tucson for good, that he had skipped, leaving numerous and sundry creditors," and called him some hard names—'a bilk and a disgrace." The facts of the case are very different. The reverend gentleman is only away on his regular summer vacation, per announcements made a week before departure. WATER TROUBLE.

Prescott has a shortage of water. A night or two ago a meeting was held to consider the question. Several citizens took part in the discussion and agreed to advance $1000 for sinking the well on Goose Flat another 100 feet. The impression is general that Prescott should own its own waterworks. Already the town has expended nearly $100,000 for water. WATER TROUBLE.

TEMPE.

TEMPE, July 15.—(Regular Correspondence.) A conference was held here a day or two ago between the chiefs and sub-chiefs from the Pima village, near here, and Agent J. Roe Young. The trouble is over shortage of water for irrigation, crops being almost a failure. The trouble is laid to the Arizona Canal Company. Agent Young entered into a contract with the canal company for 500 inches of water, perpetually, never to be diminished in quantity. The Indians claim that they have had nothing like 500 inches, and crops are not nearly so good as when the Indians had their own crossout. Agent Young Intends to enforce the furnishing of the full 500 inches, and unless that quantity of water is at once turned into the Indian ditch and kept there he will enjoin the company from running it through their canal.

FLORENCE, July 15.—(Regular Correspondence.) The surveyors of the proposed extension of the North and South road have moved camp from the buttes, fifteen miles southeast of Florence to Red Rock, also on the line of the Southern Pacific, and are rapidly proceeding to Tucson. It is stated that the party will return here in the course of two or three weeks and will run another line to Benson by the way of old Camp Grant and Mammoth. This is the route urged by Nogales, and will leave Tucson off the road. Chances are good for the route via Tucson, however.

The water so obtained would irrigate most of Pinal county, covering several hundreds of thousands of acres, and will reach from Casa Grande to Mesa. A FIGHT BETWEEN SERPENTS. tution was made here a day or two ago between a Gila monster and a rattle-snake. The two were shut in together in a dry goods box. It was a knock-out fight of one round. The monster opened with that bad-digestion breath of his, which was too much for the snake. The latter fied. The monster led out and caught the snake on the neck. He did not let go, but shook his adversary as a dog might. With the breath, the bite, the poison and the shaking the snake did not respond when time was called.

A Rich Kansas Tourist Deserts His

Another heartbreaking little drama has been enacted in Los Angeles, one with the old ctory. An invalid wife cannot keep her husband's love, a selfish, dissipated fellow leaves her for a woman of his own kind, and the poer, grief-worn little wife tries to cast aside all her misery by death. Seven years ago the town of Hudson, Kan., numbered among its most influential citigrief-worn little wife tries to cast aside all her misery by death. Seven years ago the town of Hudson, Kan., numbered among its most influential citizens a man by the name of Maltby. He was a money-lender, prosperous, well-to-do and respected. He one day, to the surprise of everybody, announced his intention of remarrying, for he had long been a widower. He chose as his wife a young girl whose father he was almost old enough to be.

But things did not go smoothly with the couple. The wife's health was very poor, and there were no children born to form a tie between them.

Several months ago they came to California. While at Riverside the wife had an attack of nervous prostration. They came to Los Angeles, living first at Gray Gables on Seventh street, then boarding in a private house near by. Mrs. Maltby's health was still miserable, she was a bundle of quivering nerves, she could not sleep.

Then the husband left her, tiring of a slok wife. He went away, without a word, in the company of another woman, an adventuress who had attracted the miserable old man by her youthful charms.

Mrs. Maltby could not believe that he had deserted her. She waited, hoping, hoping that he would come back. Her insoming grew unbearable. She went to a druggist and asked for medicine to make her sleep. Then, one night, she took an overdose—accidentally, of course. Dr. Joseph C. Michener was called. After she had lain unconscious for four hours the doctor brought her back to life. But it was a hard fight.

It was just a week ago today, Wednesday, July 10, that this occurred, and it was three days before she recovered from the effects.

"No, no; I don't want to talk." she said yesterday, in a choking incoherent way. A look of agony crossed her haggard, care-worn face. "I thought Mr. Maltby would be back before this," she went on. "I will see Dr. Michener to morrow, he has been very kind. And then—perhaps tomorrow I may go back

O'CONNELL TRIED FOR ASSAULT VITH A DEADLY WEAPON.

Al Carr is Released Upon Making Insanity Case.

Cow-stealing at Santa Monica-A Bicycle-thief Arrested-The San Pedro Man Really Insane.

A Committee "Up a Tree" in the Howard Investigation Case-Police Commissioner Barham Still Serves the City.

The "investigation of the Street Su perintendent's official action" was con-tinued yesterday, producing nothing more than an angry remonstrance from Mr. Howard, with regard to the method pursued by the committee in its work.

The investigation may be summed up and described in a single word—"fizzle." as a board of equalization, listening to the reading of the assessment rolls by the clerk. Any one possessing roved method of killing time will onfer a favor on the Council by making be method public informatin. At the Courthouse yesterday, the chief st centered in the trial of Valenterest centered in the trial of Valen-ie O'Connell for assault with a deadly apon. Another false accusation of innity angered the officials in Department Four. Deputy District Attorney Willis was absent in Santa Monica prosecuting a cattle thief. Al Carr compromised his case and was released.

AT THE CITY HALL. MORE "INVESTIGATION."

A Just Demand Made by Street Su-

The official investigation of the alleged crookedness in the office of the Street Superintendent was continued yesterday morning, the committee hav-ing secured the assistance of Deputy City Attorney Thomas in its work. Superintendent Howard was promptly on hand at the hour appointed for the beginning of the investigation, and speedily showed that during the process of probing into his career, while he has said very little, he has kept up he has said very little, he has kept up some very hard thinking. Hitherto Mr. Howard has manifested a very meek spirit, and listened to whatever testimony was produced with becoming patience. But a change has come over the spirit of his dreams, as evidenced by his opening remarks to the committee vesterday morning.

"I wish to state to the members of this committee," said the Street Superintendent, "that I consider the manner of conducting this investigation unfair in the extreme. I have submitted to the procedure thus far, being ignorant of what was desired to be proven against me, and also being myself very anxious to hear what these witnesses who have been summoned to testify had to say. But I insist that a stop be put to this desultory examination, in which my name is being dragged through the mud and mire, with nothing to justify the proceeding. I demand that a bill of charges be filed against me with the City Clerk, and that this farce of examining a lot of witnesses who, by their own confession, have nothing to tell, be ended. I want to know why and for what reasons my conduct is being investigated."

"You know as well as I do," replied Chairman Munson to the audacious Street Superintendent, "how this committee came to be appointed, and you know the motion by which it was appointed."

"But." Interposed the City Attorney, "we should certainly know what these

"But," Interposed the City Attorney, "we should certainly know what these witnesses have to say, before they ap-pear to give testimony before this com-mittee." Then Chairman Munson explained the Then Chairman, Munson explained the remarkable method employed by this committee in conducting its investigations. It seems that the members have simply acted as dumb receptacles for the reception of names, given them by anybody and everybody, upon the grounds that these names represented people who possessed information about the Street Superintendent. These people were subpoenaed and, with no previous examination whatever, were taken before the committee and subjected to an amateur cross-examination by the Councilmen having the matter in hand. This explanation appeared to furnish the City Attorney much amusement. However, he proceeded with the examination of the first witness R. Nelson, an employee of the Street Superin in nand. This explanation appeared to furnish the City Attorney much amusement. However, he proceeded with the examination of the first witness. R. Nelson, an employee of the Street Superintendent, was sworn. Mr. Nelson had known the Street Superintendent for seven years, had worked for him twenty-five days and knew absolutely nothing derogatory to the character of his employer, Mr. Howard.

"Call Mr. McKillip," said Chairman Munson, as he dismissed Mr. Nelson with a lordly wave of his hand. Mr. McKillip is the gentleman who has the boating privilege at Westlake Park, and was examined last week by the committee. His testimony was not at all satisfactory at that time, however, and he was recalled for the purpose of improving it. No sooner had the chairman of the committee addressed a question to Mr. McKillip concerning the now famous Dodd lots, than he was interrupted by the alert Street Superintendent, who registered a vigorous objection to a revival of the discussion over that matter, declaring that it was settled at the former investigating session. "I protest," said the angry Street Superintendent, "against being made a black sheep in this commonity, and I insist on definite charges being made against me, if this investigation is to proceed further."

There being no more witnesses present the case was continued until 9 o'clock this morning. Councilman Stockwell, a member of the committee, is also president of the Board of Equalization, which at this time is in session every day. The other members of the committee object to conducting the investigation alone, and there is talk of holding sessions of the committee in the swoning. The project will doubtless and in talk. Also there is talk of turning over the entire affair to the grand rury. The committee is sick of its job.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

A Rather Dreary and an Uninteresting Session.

The first session of the Board of Equalization was held yesterday morn-ing with Councilmen Stockwell, King-Blanchard, Ashman, Pessell and Teed present. The entire week will be occupied in the reading of the assessment books by the clerk. This, of course, is nothing but a form, as the ment books by the clerk. This, of course, is nothing but a form, as the Councilmen are simply required to be present during the proceeding, and are not supposed to hear what is being read. Their time is occupied in inhaling the frangrant incense of the best Havana cigars, and in listening to reminiscential stories, good, bad and indifferent, retailed by the various Councilmen in turn. It is a strong temptation to the Councilmen to be absent or tardy during these interesting sessions, and an unwritten law is in force, that tardy Councilmen shall be required to furnish cigars for the entire Council. Councilman Blanchard was the first victim to suffer from this law, and, after passing around a hatful of cigars, ruefully declared that "Never more would he be late."

The board will hold sittings for three weeks, the Councilmen alternating in attendance each week. The property-owners who desire their assessments changed, will be heard by the board next week.

Trial of Valentine O'Connell for As-

Valentine O'Connell, a young man from Downey, was tried yesterday in Department One on the charge of hav-Bitro Linarez, with every intention of killing him in his tracks. The trouble really began in a misunderstanding between the O'Connells and W. W. Orr, upon whose place the Mexican was working. Orr had formerly been a witness against O'Connell when he was tried for an offense similar to the present one, and there was bad blood between the families in consequence.

lar to the present one, and there was bad blood between the families in consequence.

The Mexican Linarez was working in Orr's field when O'Connell came up and spoke insultingly to him. The two men abused each other energetically for a few minutes, when O'Connell went away with the threat that he would go and get his gun to shoot Linarez.

The Mexican went at once to Orr's house and obtained a pistol, which he stuck in his belt, and then returned to the field.

In a short time O'Connell and Kirkendall drove up and the shooting took place. The Mexican claims that the young men fired twice at him before he shot back, while O'Connell and Kirkendall swear that Linarez came up to the fence as they were driving by and deliberately rested his pistol upon a post while he "drew a bead" upon them.

F. R. Nash, a witness for the defense, testified that he was driving directly behind the young men, and saw the first shot fired from the field, but as all the laborers at that time in the field deny having seen any one driving along the road at that time but O'Connell and Kirkendall, and Nash was said to have been twenty miles away at that particular time, this testimony did not carry

The clerk was instructed to request of the City Council that an additional appropriation of $50 be made for the construction of the East Side Police Station.

A committee, consisting of the Chief and Commissioners Field and Webber, was appointed to investigate the condition of the Boyle Heights Folice Station, which is reported to be in a very poor sanitary condition. The case of Bryant vs. Wa hington Oil Company was resumed yesterday in Department Five. The case was ordered submitted upon the court commissioners' report, and upon the evidence heretofore introduced, and judgment was ordered for the plaintiff in the sum of $1200.

Adolph Sebalap was brought before Judge Young yesterday on the charge of selling liquor without a license. He entered the plea of not guilty, and the case will be tried today.

J. Rogers, accused by Alice Williams of having stolen $10 from her, was brought before Judge Young yesterday, and held to answer upon $500 bail.

Helen C. Reber was yesterday granted a divorce from her husband, Edwin A. Reber, by Judge York.

Wilson, the old soldier of 76, who shot at a comrade with a pistol, down in the Soldiers' Home, was yesterday brought in and lodged in the County Jail. He will be brought up today before Judge Young.

The Board of Supervisors is busy audting demands just now, but other little matters crop up occasionally and receive the attention of the august body as they come. The business disposed of yesterday in the pauses between demanded as a follow:

mands is as follows:
Upon motion of Supervisor Hay the request of the County Superintendent of Schools to retain the special deputy allowed him, until August 1, was granted.

allowed him, until August 1, was granted.

Upon motion of Supervisor Woodward the bid of the Office Specialty Manufacturing Company of San Francisco to do all the metal and grill work in the Treasurer's office for the sum of $225 was accepted, and the District Attorney requested to draft the contract. The work is to be completed within sixty days, subject to the approval of the board.

Upon motion of Supervisor Hay, Theodore Summerland, the County As-sessor, was given three weeks' leave of absence, to commence on July 15.

sent the cow over to Sentous's slaughter-house.

Now Jose Lopez is one of the workmen at Sentous's slaughter-house, and, when his cow was brought in, mutual recognition was instantaneous, and a joyful meeting followed.

Lopez at once traced the sale of the cow to Sanford and promptly handed him up on the charge of stealing the animal. Sanford told the usual tale of an unknown Mexican, from whom had purchased the cow, but took the precaution of attempting to quietly "square" things with Lopez.

in ms make-up and has been trying to enlist the services of a mascot for some time.

There was something about the little pickaninny, Richard McKinney, the colored urchin who has been twice arrested for burglary, that awakened Mr. James's interest, so on his motion the little darky and his two white accomplices were on Monday allowed to go on their own recognizance. The young limb of the District Attorney's office did even more for the colored boy than give him his liberty, in company with Police Clerk Everett he took the little, black rapscallion to a ciothin store and bought him a polka-dot smirt and Picadilly collar, a jacket of many colors, a pair of white duck trousers and handpainted suspenders, explaining to his friend Everett that he was togging out the youngster for the mascot of the yachting party that Justice Morrison, Clerk Everett, Attorney James and a number of friends are getting up, and which is to sail from San Pedro about August 1 on a week's cruise around Catalina and San Clemente islands.

The young fellow looked like a fulfiedged negro minstrel in his gaudy raiment, and went home grinning from ear to ear. James told him to be sure to come up to court next day, but the mascot failed to appear, perhaps on account of his being too busy planning another burglary.

The Deputy District Attorney feels a little dubious about his mascot now, and it is possible the yacht will sali without the pickaninny with the loud clothes aboard.

It Was Not Suicide.

Coroner Campbell held an inquest at the Soldiers' Home yesterday on the body of Bernard Coll, an old soldier who took an overdose of morphine. The jury found that the drug was acciden-tally administered and not taken with suicidal intent as was at first suspected.

PASADENA.

A SUCCESSFUL COMPETITIVE DRILL

Delinquent Physicians and Health Office Rules-The Reynolds Anniversary and a Wedding-Another New Business Block-Personal and News Notes.

PASADENA, July 16 .- (Regular Correspondence.) Pasadena is a healthy city, in the main, and by far the larger number of deaths occurring here are those of invalids who have come to the community from the East in search of health, and were too far gone before their arrival here to be benefitted by the change of climate. Yet cases of ill-ness do occur here, and there are now several cases of typhoid fever in town, one on Orange Grove avenue, a very serious form of the disease, and two in one family ill of the same It is the duty of all physicians children in one family ill of the same malady. It is the duty of all physicians having the charge of typhoid fever patients and of cases of contagious or infectious diseases, to report the same at once to the health officer. A large number of physicians in town have persistently failed to do this, although there is a severe penalty attached to the non-fulfilment of the ordinance upon that subject, and the health officer is often left to chance information of such cases of disease, instead of regularly receiving them from the practitioners. Were all of the cases of typhoid fever reported at once, a study of the sanitary condition of the neighborhood could be made by the proper authorities and improvement effected. As a cause of illness, the impurity of the water in this hot weather certainly has something of an effect, although since attention was called to the subject most people boil and filter the water, and others drink only distilled and mineral water. One grocery firm in town sells others drink only distilled and mineral water. One grocery firm in town sells nearly 1600 gallons of such water every week at an average cost of 20 cents a gallon. Several other firms sell from a gallon to forty gallons a day of imported water, and all the time the citizens who buy it are paying for pure water from the regularly-organized water companies.

Monday evening there was a large crowd of citizens present at the armory of gallant Co. B, to witness the competitive drill for the medals, and the presentation ceremonies advertised for that occasion. Several officers from Los Angeles came down on the electric car to take part in the exercises, among them being Col. Schreiber, commander of the Seventh, Capt. H. D. Alfonso, adjutant of the Seventh, and his wife, Capt. Kennedy, Lieuts. Beale and Collins of Co. C, Lieut. Lawrence of the Signal Corps, Sergt. Wankowski of the Regimental Staff, Principal Musician Bradbury and fourteen members of the Bugle and Drum corps, and about twenty-five other members of Co. C, many of them accompanied by their sisters or some other fellow's sister. Fifteen men entered into the competition for the two medals, and were put through their paces by Capt. Bangham, Col. Schreiber and Capt. Kennedy acting as judges. The first medal was awarded to Charles Brown, and the silver medal was given to Private L. Keene. The beautiful silk flag which was awarded to the company by Capt. Kennedy, who made a neat and effective little speech, compilimenting the boys on their well-earned trophy. Capt. LAURELS FOR THE BRAVE. Kennedy, who made a neat and effective little speech, complimenting the boys on their well-earned trophy. Capt. Bangham responded in his usual happy style, and the formal programme was concluded and the embryo warriors banished all pride of victory and thought only of pleasure. They disported themselves in the intricacles of "the maxy" dance, and the delights of the seductive lees and other dainties and enjoyed themselves with their the seductive ices and other dainties and enjoyed themselves with their "best girls" as well becomes heroes in times of peace. Messrs. Fishbeck, Prince and Weight furnished the music for the dancing, and the evening was an exceedingly pleasant one to all who participated in its enjoyments. AN ANNIVERSARY AND WEDDING.

About two hundred of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Reynolds assembled at their pleasant home on North De-Lacey street Monday evening, to congratulate their host and hostess on the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding. Numerous beautiful gifts were presented as souvenirs of the occasion, and because there was one incident of great importance in the nature of a surprise to the guests it was a memorable evening. The lawn and verandas were screened in with canvas canopies and awnings, and the house was exquisitely decorated with flowers and vines. At 9 o'clock Mr. Reynolds and his wife entered from a curtained recess on the north porch and renewed their vows, and, when the ceremony was concluded the surprise, in the person of Miss Addie Reynolds arrayed as a bride, and Munson Mulford as a groom, appeared from the same recess. The couple stopped before Rev. C. C. Reynolds and Rev. Issac Reynolds, brothers of the charming bride, and in a very few moments the words that bound them together for better or for worse were pronounced, amid a silence so profound and amazed that it could almost be felt. The hearty congratulations of the guests were followed by a supper served in the parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Mulford will make Pasadena their future home.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

Attention was called in this column to the fact that a horse cannot be considered hitched, when he is free to roam wherever his fancy dictates, or terror incites him, and Recorder Rossiter today took the same view of the case, when he sentenced R. G. Malcolmson to pay a fine of $5 for leaving his horses unhitched, notwithstanding the fact that the driver considered them hitced because he had them attached to a twenty-pound weight with a strap. This team of horses have achieved notoriety in the running-away line, and the little weight proved no serious obstacle in the way of the gratification of their propensity. They were stopped before they had gone very far and Mr. Malcolmson was arrested for the violation of the ordinance. Under the construction of the law, a horse is not hitched, unless he is so securely fastened as to preclude the possibility of this becoming a menace to the safety of the general public. It is thought that this case will be a warning to others who use insufficient means of hitching their steeds.

It is said that Al Carr's relatives are taking steps to settle his affairs, and to that end have gone over to Santa Monica, from which point the first complaint came, to arrange matters there. SOLDIERS' HOME, July 16 .- (Regular Correspondence.) The annual report of the Keely Institute at the home, sub or the Keety Institute at the holes, such a street that the figures were given for active departments in Monday's Times, presents interesting facts rgarding that branch of home work. Assistant Surgeon E. L. Puett, in addition to his other duties, administers and manages, the Keely treatment. The institute has the Keely treatment. The institute has become a feature of home management and its beneficial influence, moral and physical, is universally conceded. It was organized July 21, 1893, and up to June 30 last 188 members had been treated, and the percentage of lapses is only 16.6; 78 were graduated in the last fiscal year, the oldest member being 77 and the youngest 46 years of age. Under Dr. Puett's able management the institute is now in flourishing financial condition and the inducements for reformation in this particular matter are made highly attractive. The annual celebration of the organization of the institute in the home will be held in Assembly Hall, July 24. The musical and literary exercises for the occasion have been arranged under the supervision of Mrs. Hasse, wife of Surgeon H. E. Hasse, assisted by Mrs. Wachsmuth, matron of the home. Rev. Alfred Clark of Los Angeles will delight a home suddence by her fine musical and elocutionary selections.

The first death in the home since June 25 last, occurred on the 14th inst. Bernard Coil, late Co. B, Tenth United States Infantry, procured morphine from some outside source and presumably took an overdose to alleviate pain, but the effect was fatal. Coroner Campbell was notified and an inquest will be held. Coil was admitted to the home October 12, 1894, from Sacramento, Cal., and was 56 years old at the time of his death.

Miss Annie Rowland, the Governor's daughter, returned by steamer on Tuesday from her visit to friends and relatives in San Francisco and Oakland.

Bids for the furnishing of stationery supplies for the county for the fiscal year were received and referred to Messrs. Armor and Smith to investigate and report at the next meeting.

The matter of M. D. Henderson being sent to the Los Angeles County Hospital was referred to Supervisor Armor with power to act.

An application for a saloon license under ordinance No. 25 was granted to C. Miller of Santa Ana.

H. C. Kellogg, County Surveyor, appeared before the board and pleaded "guilty," so to speak, of leaving the State recently on important business, without first having secured the consent of the board. As this was a violation of law, although innocently committed, upon motion, the board felt that it was necessary to declare the office of County Surveyor vacant. This was done, but Mr. Kellogg was given to understand that if he would secure the names of about thirty voters to a petition asking for his reappointment (this number being required by law,) that he would soon be reinstated. The genial surveyor then set about to secure the required number of signatures, and before he was scarcely a block from the Supervisors' office he had more than the number required. As soon as the board reassembled in the afternoon Mr. Kellogg was unanimously reappointed to succeed himself.

F. P. Nickey, chairman of the board, reported that the city would purchase the County would proceed to build a county jail to cost about $20,000. The report was favorably received and filed.

In the afternoon rates for advertising and job printing for the county were established, after which the board adjourned to meet again the first Monday in August next.

The City Trustees met Monday evening, all members being present.

The committee appointed to investigate the matter of buying the County Jail reported that it was deemed advisable to purchase the same at $2500, providing the county would put up a jail on its property to cost on or about $20,000. The report was accepted and filed.

The petition of S. H. Finley, asking permission to construct and maintain and use a rifle range on the land near the artificial lake on West First street was granted.

Sealed bids were received from the Orange County Herald and Santa Ana Daily Blade to do the printing and advertising for the city for one year from August 1, 1895, and the bid of the Blade was accepted.

The annual report of the trustees of the Santa Ana Public Library was received and filed.

The annual report of the trustees of the Santa Ana Public Library was received and filed.

The petition of the Athletic Association Committee, asking permission to erect a tight board fence in front of the Athletic grounds on North Main street was granted.

City Clerk Tedford was given a tendays' leave of absence and City Attorney West a twenty-five-days' breathing spell from official duties.

The Street Superintendent was instructed to remove certain trees on West street, after which the board adjourned.

Santa Ana not only has a number of very speedy bicycle riders, but it has several who are really not novices at fancy riding. Monday evening an exhibition was given on Fourth street in front of the postoffice, by Ike Fields, Harry Bundy and others, that was quite interesting. Mr. Fields's work on the "bike" was particularly good, the evolutions he practiced proving a pleasant surprise to the friendly on-lookers who heartily applauded the young man's efforts.

Trustees in Session-Sewer Bonds to be Voted For.

SANTA MONICA, July 16 .- (Regular Correspondence.) Forty thousand dol-lars for a sewer system is the figure adopted by the Town Trustees last evening, and the bonds will be voted up or down September 3 next. Third street, too, is to be graded, as per ordinance also adopted. The general work of the Trustees was as follows:

J. H. Clark was authorized to substitute others for the eucalyptus trees on property at Fifth and Nevada.

Several general-merghandise licenses were authorized transferred to new purchasers, and the Del Mar proprietors were authorized to stretch an advertising banner across Third street.

Ordinance No. 219, establishing grade upon Third street, between Utah and Raliroad avenues, was adopted. This was followed by a resolution of intention to grade said portion of the street and put in a cobble-gutter along a portion of the same.

Ordinance No. 220, establishing grade of Railroad avenue west of Fourth street, was passed.

Another step toward a sewer system was taken in the adoption of ordinance No. 221, declaring the necessity of such system and providing for a special election to vote upon bonds for constructing the same, in the sum of $44,000. September 3 was fixed as the date of such election. The following election officers are named: Inspectors, E. D. Suits and H. X. Goetz; judges, H. C. Bagg and S. Jackson; clerks, W. S. Chamberlain and G. C. Bochine; ballot clerks, Ward Leavitt and M. H. Kimball. The bonds are to run forty years at 5-per cent. interest, and bear date of January 1, 1896.

On motion bids for the park drinking-fountain were ordered opened. But one bid was found to contain the requisite check, and that was by George C. Bochine at $135. On motion the bid was referred to the Fire and Water Committee.

Ordinance No. 222, excluding bleycles Ordinance No. 222, excluding bicycles from the sidewaiks, was adopted. The maximum punishment for violation was fixed at $20 or twenty days, or both. A motion prevailed that the matter of stacking loose hay about town be inquired into, after which the board adjourned.

There is considerable bad blood being engendered down on the Rincon tract just this side of the county line, where a moonshine saloon is being run to its full capacity for the benefit of the Mexicans and a few Americans who congregate there. Word came in from a Mexican that there had been a fight there and an American had killed three Mexicans, when he was overgowered by the other Mexicans and whung. This news came straight and was vouched for by some of the most reputable citizens of Agua Mansa, but all efforts at learning anything further have failed and the inhabitants there are very reticent, or else the news gained in volume as it traveled. Those who are acquainted there say that unless the illicit saloon is suppressed what was sent out as actual facts will become so, as it is only a matter of a short time when the hostile feeling that has shown itself on many occasions will, under the influence of the moonshine, break out into a tragedy. engendered down on the Rincon tract Affairs at the cannenry are in a very flourishing and lively state just at present. They have over three hundred hands working on apricots, of which they will put up 500 tons this season, mostly by canning. They expect to be about ten days longer on this work, disposing of the late crop from the North that is brought down here for canning, and by that time the peaches will be coming in, then the peaches will be coming in, then the pears and plums. They expect to put up at least 1000 tons each of peaches and pears this year. The crop is large, the fruit excellent, a promise of a big demand for canned goods at good prices, and they expect by far to outdo all other seasons in the amount of fruit canned this year.

Now the ve-hicle had seen too many days of hard useage, even though it might be nevel so well mended, to be a suitable con-veyance for a minister, like Dr. Harper. And this fact was noticeable to some of the leaders of the A.P.A. and Junior O.U.A.M. societies. Accordingly vithout consulting any one outside without consulting any one outside of their own orders, not even the parson himself, they traded the to-be-repaired surrey for a fine two-seated, canopy-topped road wagon, and purchased also a brand-new harness. The clergyman's horse was unceremoniously taken from his stall, clothed with the harness and hitched to the new conveyance and driven to the parsonage. THE OIL INDUSTRY.

ITS GREAT AND GROWING IMPORT ANCE TO LOS ANGELES.

Report of Its Beginning and Devel opment-Number of Wells Operated-Present Output-Capital Invested-Pipe Lines and Storage

Just at this time, when sagacious men in all parts of the United States are looking for a period of great industrial progress and commercial expansion, enterprising men in Los Angeles and elsewnere are asking pertinent questions regarding the discovery of petroleum in the heart of the city. Is the problem of cheap fuel solved? Is off being produced in valuable commercial quantities? What does the oil industry mean to the community at the present time? What is its vital bearing on the future of the city? Has the industrial situation of Los Angeles changed during the past year? And, lastly, has it a new base for prosperity? Hitherto this section has invited the agriculturist, the invalid, the man of means who desired to escape the rigors of Eastern climate. Can the range of its call be broadened? Is it in a position to offer a fair and promising field to the manufacturer? Here are a few facts and figures that may prove interesting.

facts and figures that may prove inter-esting.

With the history of the development of this local oil territory all are familiar.
Its progress since April, 1893, when E.
L. Deheny with pick and shovel sunk a test or "wild-cat" well, a shaft 4x6 feet, and dipped up four barrels daily from a deptn of 160 feet, to the present time, when a forest of derricks meets the eye, has been watched with inter-est. The speculative phase has been succeeded by that of settled develop-ment.

There are now about three hundred

There are now about three hundred wells in operation or ready to be opened, covering a territory of about forty acres, and practically no dry holes. It is safe to say that the aggregate output of these wells when pumped will reach at least twenty-five hundred barrels per day of crude perceivers of an average grayity of 15 troleum of an average gravity of 15 degrees.

The average cost of a well is not far from $1500, including pumps, tanks, etc., aggregating an investment of not less than $450,000 in wells. This is rap-idly being increased by additional etc., aggregating an investment of not less than $450,000 in wells. This is rapidly being increased by additional wells.

Two pipe-lines are now completed from the field to the railway tracks, each about four and a half miles, one company having a 32,000-barrel storage tank, the other a 35,000-barrel tank, and these lines have cost not far from $70,000. Pumping plants, delivery tanks, horses and other adjuncts have brought the actual investment in the industry up to as much as $600,000. Many good authorities placed at about $150,000 greater than it was in 1894, the greater portion being placed on the land. The residence improvements have been largely reduced.

While the refinery at the corner of Second street and Beaudry avenue is of small capacity and experimental in its nature, if has been able to show, however, that there is not only a fuel supply, but that a lubricant as good as the best can be produced.

It is impossible to ascertain exactly just how much oil is being consumed in Los Angeles and contiguous territory, but it is approximated $4.1500 barrels a day. The Southern California Railway Company now has eleven engines under oil service and is equipping others as rapidly as they can be spared. The street railroads, the orewerles, laundries, iron and steel works, printing offices are also large consumers. The brick yards have been slow to adopt it, but are now rapidly being fitted with oil burners. This will largely increase the local demand, and 1800 barrels will be about the daily consumption.

The market has been somewhat demoralized of late and no fixed price has been quoted, but an exchange is being organized, to be in good hands, which will regulate prices, so it is probable that 70 to 75 cents per barrel will be the ruling rate at the wells of $1 delivered. The experience of the railroad companies is that four barrels of oil, or a little less, is equal to a ton of coal, and some consumers say three barrels will equal in units of heat a ton of coal.
